Officer Gives Jury Details Of Shooting

Testifies Connie Admitted Firing Fatal Bullets

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Connie Nicholas admitted she fired the fatal bullets that killed her married lover but pleaded she had not meant to take his life because "you don't shoot someone you love," a detective said Friday at her murder trial.

"I shot him, I shot him," Smith quoted her as saying. "I'm not sorry."

Another detective, Carl Michaelis, said Mrs. Nicholas told him in the hospital she only meant to hit Teel in the arm.

RELATES EVENTS

Smith described to the all-husband jury his conversation.

"What did you say and what did she say?" he was asked.

"I said to Connie Nicholas she was being held on a charge of first-degree murder in the shooting of Forrest Teel. I told her anything she said could be used for her or against her and that she didn't have to say anything."

"She told me the night of Teel's shooting she made two phone calls to the apartment of Laura Mowrer, and when someone would answer, she would hang up."

"I asked her what took place then that night."

"Connie told us she left about 9:30 p.m. and drove to Laura Mowrer's apartment and parked next to Forrest Teel's Cadillac and got out of her car and into his and waited what seemed three or four hours before Forrest came out."

"He started to drive away in the car and then she asked him if he wasn't going to take her back to her car. He went back and then an argument started and she said she shoved her across the seat and hit her in the eye."

"She said she shot the gun two or three times. She said she only meant to scare him. She said 'you don't shoot someone you love.'"

"She said she got out of the car

Bank Robber, Buddy Make Daring Break

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (UPI) — A former Army trumpeter accused as a killer-bank robber and his teen-age buddy staged a daring escape from a fourth-floor jail cell Friday and fled in an automobile stolen from a "badly-beaten" assistant jailer.

The FBI said the "extremely dangerous" pair, armed with 32 caliber pistols, might be heading for Mexico. A 16-state alarm was broadcast.

The fugitives were Charles Thomas Bradford, 26, of Ft. McPherson, Ga., charged with the Feb. 20 robbery of a Ft. Bragg Army post branch bank and the slaying of a teller, and John Odum, 18, of Fayetteville. The pair fled in a 1953 blue- and-cream Ford.

"Interrogation of fellow prisoners indicated that these men may be planning to head to Mexico. The prisoners said they had talked about it," the FBI said.

Two other prisoners joined Bradford and Odum in the escape around 2:30 a.m. However, the other prisoners, unidentified Ft. Bragg soldiers facing a rape charge, apparently decided not to go through with the escape and voluntarily returned to their cells.

Deputy Sheriff A. J. Koonce said the prisoners talked assistant jailer E. V. McLauren into opening the cell door on the pretense that the shirt of one of the men was caught in the iron gate.

"When McLauren opened the door, four prisoners jumped him and beat him with some kind of instrument."

The escapees went to an adjoining room and got a pistol from a desk drawer.

Clark said one of the men then leaned out a window and tossed the keys onto the roof of the county courthouse whose top floor houses the jail.

Gasoline Douser Gets Ten Years

BARTOW, Fla. (AP)—A young mother was sentenced to 10 years in prison Friday for attempting to burn her two children to death after dousing them with gasoline.

Mrs. Juanita Irene Hamil, 21, admitted pouring gasoline on the children — Sharon Kay, 5, and Olin Vivian, 3 — setting them on fire and locking them in the bathroom of her Polk City home last Jan. 18.

Screams of the burning children made her relent, she said, and she called for help. Neighbors rescued the youngsters.

Mrs. Duncan Sentenced To Gas Chamber

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Doting mother Elizabeth Duncan was sentenced Friday to die for the weird murder of her son's wife. Her lined face showed not a flicker of emotion as she heard the words condemning her to the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

Standing beside her was her attorney son Frank, 30. Witnesses at her trial said her jealous love for him drove her to arrange the murder of the woman who had taken him away.

APPEAL LIKELY

Olga Kupczyk Duncan, 30-year-old Canadian nurse who married Frank last June 20, was kidnapped from her Santa Barbara apartment Nov. 17 and strangled. Her body was buried in a shallow roadside grave.

Two minor criminals, Augustine Baldonado, 26, and Luis Moya, 20, testified that they did it after Mrs. Duncan promised them $6,000 to kill her pregnant daughter-in-law. Superior Judge Charles F. Blackstock, who sentenced 34-year-old Mrs. Duncan did not set an execution date because an appeal will be made to the State Supreme Court.

Her death penalty had been set by the same jury that convicted her. The jury later found her sane.

UNDERWATER 48 HOURS

Navy Frogmen Set Endurance Record

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Four soggy but smiling Navy Frogmen climbed out of a warm swimming pool Friday after a 48-hour stay that set a new underwater endurance record.

They were greeted by their wives, anxious doctors, a woman psychologist and a swarm of reporters and newsmen.

All four were pronounced in good condition after physical examinations but indicated varying reactions to their long ordeal.

The men, members of an underwater demolition team, subsisted on liquids from plastic squeeze-bottles while submerged but found when they surfaced that doctors deemed it unwise for them to eat for several hours.

"I'm definitely hungry," Seaman Eugene Sanford Tinnin of Houston, Tex., said. "They faked us out and gave us tomato soup when we came up."

U.S. Orders Health Study On 'Fallout'

Nuclear Testing Brings Increase In Radioactivity

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government study is under way to determine the roles to be played by various federal agencies in checking the health effects of radioactive fallout.

The study is being made by the Atomic Energy Commission, the Welfare Department and the Budget Bureau on orders from President Eisenhower.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, announcing this Friday, said Eisenhower expects a report in a few weeks.

CONCERN GROWS

A statement released at the same time said the study is being conducted "in view of the considerable public attention which has been focused recently on the radiological health studies of the federal government."

Word of the Eisenhower-ordered study came in the wake of proposals in and out of Congress that the Public Health Service, an arm of the Welfare Department, take over chief responsibility for protecting the nation from radiation hazards. The AEC now has that primary responsibility.

Worldwide concern has been expressed about fallout from nuclear tests conducted by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union — the world's three atomic powers.

A dangerous element in this fallout is Strontium 90, which — if taken into the body in sufficient amounts — could cause blood or bone cancer.

Recent reports from the AEC and other sources of a sharp upturn in radioactivity in U.S. soil have spurred the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee to order a hearing May 4 to look into the matter.

Atomic Commissioner Willard F. Libby said Friday he hopes AEC investigations will produce significant findings in time for that hearing.

Tupelo Fire Destroys Two Large Stores

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Fire raged out of control in downtown Tupelo Friday night, destroying two large stores and threatening other buildings — including the Tupelo Hotel.

The four-story hotel, across the street from the fire, was ordered temporarily evacuated. Firemen took station on the roofs in an effort to keep the flames from spreading.

No injuries were reported. Fire chief Arthur Hutchison said the fire ruined the three-story building that housed the F. W. Woolworth Co. and the Family Shoe Store.

Reeds, the city's largest department store, lies an alley's width away.

The fire was fanned by gusty winds. Volunteers removed 50,000 of the merchandise from Reeds' Dollar Store. The firefighters included Mayor James Ballard, several aldermen and a detachment of police officers.

A block and a half of the midtown section was roped off to stop traffic. Gas mains in the area were shut off.

Hutchison said he had a report the fire was touched off by an explosion in the basement of the Woolworth building.

Residents of our neighboring state Arkansas may expect cool and cloudy weather for this weekend.

NATO Council Favors Troops Limitation Plan

U.S. Speeds Up Tempo Of Missile Tests

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A Titan ICBM arched over a 300-mile span of ocean on a third successful flight test of the nation's super-weapon Friday.

A few hours later the Air Force fired a slim little solid fuel test rocket from a high-flying B47 jet bomber in a test series designed to develop an air-launched ballistic missile (ALBM). A joint Army-Air Force team then topped off a busy day by firing an intermediate range Jupiter down the Atlantic Tracking Range in another operation gas light test.

The three missile firings in one day represented a highly unusual display of the nation's developing missile might.

VARY IN RANGE

The two-stage rocket fired from the plane was developed by the same firm which built the high Titan that went on an apparently perfect test flight. The 20-foot ALBM, expected to be named the Bold Orion, will have a range of about 1,000 miles. The 90-foot Titan eventually is expected to have a range of 9,000 miles.

The silver- and- white Titan's short but significant hop down the Atlantic tracking range made veteran rocketeers marvel. The Titan's older brother, the Atlas, did not notch a successful flight until its third try, six months after the first Atlas shot.

The Martin Co., which makes the intercontinental ballistic missile at Denver, Colo., called the shot "a perfect success."

"These initial triumphs of the big 'T' have resulted in the acceleration of what was already an accelerated program," Martin said. "Objectives that were planned for later missiles have been moved ahead of schedule and are now a part of current flight tests."

Martin hopes to make the 110-ton Titan combat-ready by next February, a year after the missile scored a triumph on its initial flight test Feb. 6.

The sky was clear when the Titan blasted off at 12:11 p.m. E.S.T., and reporters could see the

Smallest Citizen Claim Issued For Two-Pound Baby

Claim was made last night to the title of "Monroe's Smallest Citizen" for a sprightly young lady who tucks away eight meals a day.

The claim was issued through proxy by Miss Joyce Abigail Grafton, 806 Hilton St. There had been no reports of challengers to the claim. Mrs. Troy Grafton, who made the claim for her two-pound daughter, said she figured it would stand for a while anyway.

It was learned from authoritative sources who would not be quoted that Miss Grafton may be surveying the possibility of making more claims for the records. However the source refused to elaborate on just what other claims might be in the making.

However there were rumors circulating in informed quarters that Miss Grafton is somewhat of an amateur gourmet who every three hours tackles a hefty meal of three cubic centimeters of formula. That's less than a teaspoonful.

Miss Grafton arrived at the St. Francis Hospital a week ago today three months early by caesarean section, Mrs. Grafton said.

J. McKeithen Quits Race For Governorship

John J. McKeithen Jr., Louisiana Public Service Commission chairman, officially withdrew from the gubernatorial race yesterday, confirming reports he has decided not to run.

"Because of several reasons, including numerous problems now facing the commission, I have decided to announce, at this time, that I will not be a candidate for governor," McKeithen told the Morning World yesterday afternoon.

His statement climaxed several weeks of political speculation that he would not be a candidate. McKeithen had been a rumored gubernatorial candidate for several months.

But he threw cold water on the idea yesterday, announcing that he will be a candidate for reelection to the Public Service Commission next summer.

REASON

McKeithen, who was instrumental in reducing telephone rates, listed the Southern Bell Telephone rate case as one reason for deciding not to run.

"I don't have to remind the people that the phone company is in court attempting to get $15-million in a rate increase," McKeithen said.

"In addition, the commission is faced with a deluge of requests by the railroad companies to eliminate small depots, plus numerous gas rate cases," he said.

"In fairness to the people of this district, I am sure that I could not conduct the type of campaign necessary and at the same time conclude the many problems before the commission," the Columbia attorney stated.

McKeithen said he had six other good reasons too.

"I have six children ranging in age from 18 months to 15 years of age, he said. "I feel I have an obligation to them during the formative period of their lives."

Formerly Gov. Earl K. Long's House whip, McKeithen said he would not take an active part in the coming race, but quickly added

Report Awaited On Jury Probe

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The East Baton Rouge Parish grand jury Friday gave some signs it may be considering a final report after weeks of investigating rumored irregularities in school construction.

Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot said Friday night no report would be forthcoming until after the jury reconvenes Monday. He conferred during a day-long session with the grand jury and Dist. Judge Fred S. LeBlanc.

The jurors called in only one witness in more than 2½ hours of morning deliberation. The witness, J. M. King, a contractor, appeared for five minutes.

The grand jury has called all school board members, top school officers, two defeated board candidates, a number of architects, members of the school board staff, insurance men and a tax consultant.

WEATHER TOLL CLIMBS

2,000 Homeless In Spring Floods

Spring floods, fed by April showers and melting snowbanks, kept more than 2,000 persons homeless in New England and the Midwest Friday.

The floods followed a weeklong weather siege of tornadoes in the South, dense fog in the East, and heavy rains in the North. Together, the vile weather combination had claimed 20 lives.

Tornadoes and high winds since Tuesday had killed 10 persons in Texas, three in Florida, and one in Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Vermont both reported single flood fatalities.

Off Cape Cod, Mass., an 83-foot trawler hit a sand bar in heavy fog Friday and broke up. Four crewmen swam a half mile to shore, but three others drowned. The same fog doomed a crippled U.S. Navy Superconstellation attempting an emergency landing on an airstrip at Argentina, Newfoundland. One man was killed and seven were injured when the plane crashed and burned.

Parts of Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa had been living with their floods for more than a week. A total of 1,700 persons were homeless in the industrial Rockford, Ill., area and 80 families—the equivalent of 360 persons—had

OFFICER IS CLEARED

Airman Challenges Air Force's Action

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — an "administrative error" for the mixup and cleared Platt of blame.

"He (Platt) knew at the time that there were men going on that plane to go home on emergency leave," said Kindl. "If he knew there was an 'administrative error,' why didn't he put it on the flight instead of getting on the plane and going?"

Kindl said that he hoped the Air Force would give him a "compassionate transfer" so that he can stay in this country and be nearer his wife and their other son, Alan, 2.

"My wife is so upset by the death of our boy that a doctor has recommended that I remain as close to the family as possible," he said. "If it can not be arranged, I will have to return to Korea for another three months."

Kindl was one of a group of five enlisted men, a lieutenant and a civilian who were bumped from a military plane last week to make room for Platt, his wife and four children, who were bound for a Hawaiian vacation.

Lt. Gen. Robert W. Burns, American commander in Japan, ordered the plane to return to Tokyo after one of the bumped airmen complained to him. After investigation the Air Force blamed

Against Any Concessions To Russians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 15-nation NATO Council favors trying to negotiate with Russia a limitation of troops and weapons along both sides of the Iron Curtain as part of a Berlin and German settlement, it was disclosed Friday night.

At the same time, American officials said speakers in the council emphasized that such a plan must provide for inspection and control, plus forces and weapons to guarantee against violations.

The general feeling of the NATO Council, American officials said, was that the West could make no concessions to Russia on this or other aspects of the Berlin and German problems, without obtaining equal concessions from the Soviets.

END DISCUSSIONS

Speakers at the second day of closed door council sessions were firm in their insistence that nothing be done to upset the precarious balance of power on the European continent.

The council wound up its discussions on Berlin and Germany at its 10th anniversary meeting with a ringing endorsement of the Western Big Four's policy of no appeasement of Russia in the forthcoming negotiation over the German and other East-West problems.

But the nations of the Atlantic alliance were unanimous in their support of efforts of the United States, Britain and France to reach an honorable settlement with the Soviets.

Members of the council were unanimous in applauding the firmness of the Western Big Three in their intention not to abandon Berlin under Soviet pressure or permit the Communists to block their access to the city.

The council members also were reported in general agreement on these other points:

1—Western troops must remain in Berlin or there will be no effective guarantee against the city falling into Soviet hands.

2—The Western powers must

LSU Will Seek Funds To Build Nuclear Reactor

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dean of administration Daniel Borth said Friday Louisiana State University seeks National Science Foundation matching funds for building a nuclear reactor.

He told of the development during a joint meeting of the LSU board and the State Board of Education.

The boards met partly to go over their legislative plans for bond proposals designed for long range improvement programs.

Borth told the state's educational leaders LSU plans a $5-million-dollar construction program over the next seven years. Most of the money sought is for new buildings at LSU and the campus here.

He mentioned briefly an LSU desire to purchase a nuclear reactor, to expand nuclear engineering instruction because of the growing need for nuclear power instruction, and to place greater emphasis on studies of radioactive materials.

"This case is not a 'whodunit' but a 'howdunit' and the detective's story contradicted Mrs. Nicholas' claim that she drew the toy-sized French revolver threatening to kill herself and that it went off in a struggle.

Michaelis said Connie told him she shot the married Teel because he was beating her in the front seat of his Cadillac outside the apartment of his new mistress, Laura Mowrer. He said Mrs. Nicholas admitted she had followed him there the night of July 30th.

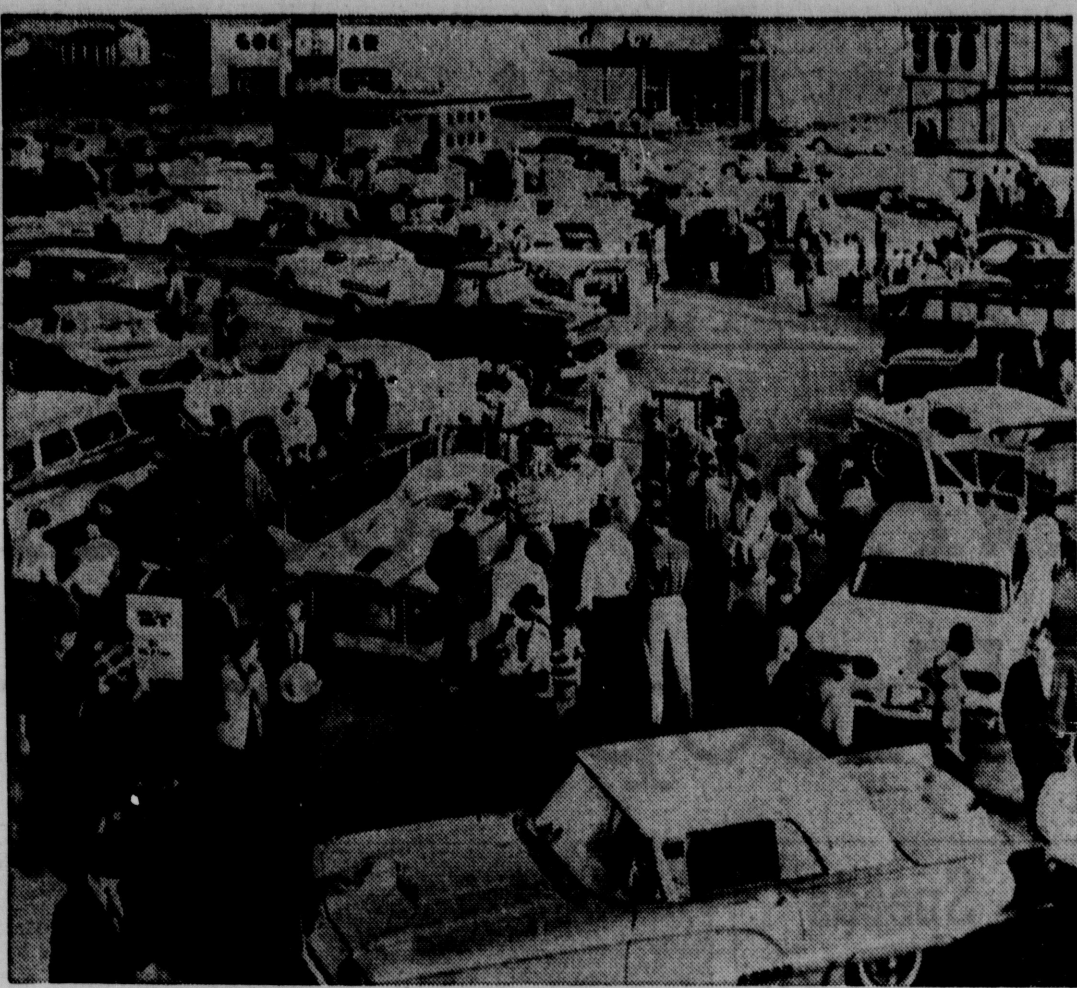

She was still very upset and crying, having attempted to take her life with sleeping pills Teel had bought for her at the Eli Lilly Co. where he was a vice president. Michaelis said at first she wouldn't talk, but then said "what do you want to know?"

"Then she told me he had started beating her. 'I asked her where. She said on the eyes, arms, all over.' 'I asked her why she had the gun. She said she wanted to scare him. She only meant to shoot him in the arm.'"

Michaelis said Mrs. Nicholas told him she did not hear Teel's car crash into a light pole after it screeched out of control following the shooting. She said she had already driven off in her own car.

Earlier, 74-year-old defense lawyer Frank Symmes demanded a mistrial when Judge Thomas J. Faulconer, 35, hearing his first murder trial permitted the jury to examine the palm-size revolver.

Symmes and Deputy Prosecutor Judson Haggerty argued for 45 minutes whether the jury should handle the gun. Faulconer finally ruled they could "inspect" it.

maintain their free access to Berlin at any cost.

3-The 2,500,000 inhabitants of West Berlin cannot be abandoned to the Communists. This would lead to a disastrous series of steps which could only end in the crumbling of NATO.

4-The Allies should show a sincere willingness to negotiate with Russia but make no concessions which would smack of appeasement.

After winding up their deliberations on Germany and Berlin, the Allied diplomats discussed East-West problems in the Middle East and heard a report from NATO Secretary General Paul Henri Spaak.

In the Middle East discussion, the foreign ministers of Greece, Turkey, Britain and Italy urged their NATO colleagues to refrain from interfering in internal disputes and problems in the Arab nations.

They also stressed the importance of supporting Iran, a member of the Baghdad Pact, in any showdown with Russia.

Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter told the council that Russia continues "pushing and probing to detect and exploit weakness" in the Allied front.

But he said the United States is confident NATO "will meet this challenge with unity and a determination."

The council winds up its current session, which commemorated the 10th anniversary of NATO, at a meeting Saturday morning which will be devoted to approving the final communiqué.

Suggestions advanced by nations other than the Big Four will be forwarded for consideration to the four-power Allied working group entire powered phase—the crucial part—of the missile's flight.

Six seconds after its first stage engine coughed and roared into action, steel mooring clamps freed the Titan and it began a majestic climb into the blue. Its silver upper stage glinting in the bright sun, the Titan began arching southeast 25 seconds after liftoff and a white vapor trail formed when it gained several thousand feet of altitude.

After about two minutes and 20 seconds of flight, the Titan's first stage engine burned out and a second later a small puff of smoke was seen in the sky.

This apparently was the ignition of two small solid-fuel rockets on the upper stage, designed ultimately to insure clean separation of the second stage from the booster section of the rocket.

However, there was no attempt Friday to fire the second stage. This is considered a crucial test, since ignition of an upper stage in flight has been a problem plaguing many rockets. Instead of fuel the second stage of Friday's Titan carried 5,600 gallons of water for ballast.

The Air Force was cautious in labeling the flight as a success, but the Pentagon soon issued a statement that preliminary reports indicated the Titan "achieved its test objectives."

The Jupiter firing was the most unusual ever seen at the cape. The 60-foot missile was supposed to hurl its wedge-shaped nose cone about 1,500 statute miles southeast of the cape. Ships and planes were waiting in the impact area to observe the effects of atmospheric friction on the speeding cone.

The launching appeared normal, but after the Jupiter's throbbing engines burned out high in the starry sky, it could be seen another three minutes. The launching came minutes after sundown, and the effect apparently was produced by the sun's rays striking the white missile as it climbed toward space.

J. McKeithen Quits Race For Governorship

ded, "Of course I reserve the right of changing my mind."

VIEW
He declined to make any predictions on the campaign, but said Congressman Otto E. Passman could run in the top spot in the Fifth Congressional District.

Passman too has been eyeing the race, but he said yesterday afternoon, "I will make a definite statement concerning my immediate political plans on or before April 15."

"I appreciate Mr. McKeithen's complimentary statement," Passman said. "Mr. McKeithen and I have been political and personal friends for many years. We've had our differences over issues, which is only natural, but we have been able to disagree without being disagreeable."

A native of Grayson in Caldwell parish, McKeithen was elected to the Public Service Commission in 1954. He served as state representative for Caldwell in 1948-52.

In '52, McKeithen joined the Long forces in running for lieutenant governor with gubernatorial hopeful Carlos Spaght. McKeithen led the Spaght ticket, but was defeated in the second primary.

Since then, he has split with Long.

Asked for comment on Long's remarks that he may resign and run again himself, McKeithen said, "I don't know anything about the governor's plans."

He was open in saying he would like to serve as Louisiana governor, adding, "It's indeed a great honor and privilege to serve as governor of the State of Louisiana."

He quickly added, "But the unhappiest men in public office have been governors of Louisiana."

Now 40, McKeithen reviewed the list of reported gubernatorial candidates and said, "The other rumored candidates range from 10 to 20 years older than I am."

"There's still plenty of time for me to be governor yet," he said.

In the meantime, McKeithen said he plans to conclude the problems facing the commission, in addition to administering his law offices in Columbia and Monroe.

"With six children, two law offices and the chairmanship of the Public Service Commission, I have enough to keep me busy for the time being," McKeithen said.

Femininity Proof Stymies Christine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ex-GI Christine Jorgensen was turned down for a marriage license Friday because of inadequate proof of her femininity.

City clerk Herman Katz refused to issue the license to the 33-year-old Christine and her fiancé, Howard J. Knox, 38, a Washington statistician, because Christine's birth certificate lists her as a male.

"I'm very disappointed," Christine said, clinging to Knox's arm. But she smiled and appeared composed, reaching up at one point and flicking a piece of lint from her fiancé's coat.

"We hope we can iron out our difficulties and see this thing through," said Knox.

The blonde nightclub entertainer wore a black ostrich hat, black dress with gold mesh necklace and a pink jacket for her appearance at the license bureau.

Katz ruled after scanning the birth certificate that "it is my opinion that public policy, in the light of existing law, requires my rejection of the application at the present time."

Christine's attorney, Roger B. Cowan, said that application would be made to the U.S. State Department to get the sex listing on Miss Jorgensen's birth certificate changed to female.

Then, the license bureau once again would be asked to issue the license, he said. If that fails, Cowan said, the couple will try to get married elsewhere.

It was Christine's second rebuff here. An earlier application was turned down because Knox lacked proof of his 1945 divorce in Chicago. Knox returned from Chicago Thursday night with the necessary documents.

Christine was a U.S. soldier named George before undergoing surgery and hormone treatments in Denmark that transformed him into a woman during a period from 1951-1958. When she returned to this country, the State Department's passport classification was as a female.

Knox met Miss Jorgensen five years ago while she was performing in a Washington nightclub. The romance flowered and was sealed recently with a diamond engagement ring.

Haiti Prexy Depends On Civilian Army

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI)—President Francois Duvalier on Friday said 25,000 men and women volunteers were ready to take up arms at a moment's notice to defend the government against invasion or rebellion.

But, in an interview in the presidential palace, Duvalier minimized the dangers of either external or internal attack.

Duvalier denied the volunteer force, which he said was formed spontaneously, was his personal army. He said it would be at the disposal of the next democratically-elected President of Haiti.

"This is a people's force and it belongs to Haiti," he said.

Duvalier said there was no conflict in aims or philosophy between the civilian army and the 5,000-man regular army which trained the volunteers.

Duvalier said the civilians did not have their own weapons but were issued them by the army for training. The weapons, he said, were returned to the arsenal but were available immediately in the event of invasion or revolt.

Duvalier explained that the volunteer army was formed after eight men seized the Port Au

Prince army barracks in an abortive revolt last July 29 and called on his government to surrender. He said he was unaware of the size of the rebel force and appealed by radio to the people for help.

Thousands of civilians responded, he said, and the rebels were killed. Shortly afterward, he added, "volunteer groups were formed throughout the country."

"Haitians love their fatherland and are willing to fight for it," Duvalier said.

Mexico Ousts Two Soviets For Actions

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Two members of the Russian Embassy staff accused of fostering Communist labor agitation in Mexico were deported Friday amid a chorus of demands that diplomatic relations with Russia be broken off.

The Russian Embassy described as an "unfriendly step" the deportation of its naval attaché, Capt. Nicolai M. Remosov, and its second secretary, Nikolai V. Aksenov, and denied the charges against them.

Remosov, 36, his wife, Nelly Remosova, and their 5-year-old son, Alexander, and Aksenov, 40, boarded a Canadian Pacific Airlines super DC6B for Toronto, on the first leg of their return to Moscow.

Mexican secret police charged it had evidence that the two Russians had supplied money and propaganda to Mexican Communist labor leaders as part of a master plan to place Mexico's organized labor under Communist control.

Demands that Mexico sever diplomatic relations with Russia were voiced by the Knights of

Sergeant First To Attain Army's New Super Rank

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP)—Sgt. Theodore L. Dobol claimed the distinction today of being the first man in the U.S. Army to attain the new super grade of sergeant major E-9.

It's the highest grade attainable by an enlisted man under the pay structure approved by Congress last year.

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) took part in a ceremony Thursday at which Dobol was presented his new rank.

With an Army strength of 870,000, post officials said, only 800 men will be appointed sergeant major E-9. Their individual assignments will be controlled by the Department of the Army in much the same manner as commissioned officers.

Dobol is the winner of four Silver Stars, the nation's third highest decoration for gallantry in combat; and five Purple Hearts for wounds received in World War II. He is known as "Mr. 26th Infantry."

Dobol, 43, of Newark, N. J., is married and has three children. He enlisted in 1938.

Two Deaf Mutes Watch Helpless As Man Is Killed

ALESSANDRIA, Italy (UPI)—Police said Friday that no charges would be preferred against two brothers who watched helplessly while an oak tree they cut crushed to death their 87-year-old employer.

Both Pierino Toppa, 38, and his brother Andrea, 56, are deaf mutes.

Through signs, the brothers explained to police that they saw Pietro Bollolo stroll into the path of the falling oak but were unable to warn him.

Artificial Employment

Because of a practice known as "featherbedding," the cost of building in the United States, including home construction, has been increased 20 per cent. This estimate was made by the Associated General Contractors of America.

Thus, according to the estimate, the construction of a $20,000 home carries a "robbery tax" of $4,000. This confiscation raises the amount remaining to be repaid on many homes by exactly the amount of the fictitious charge and causes the payment of many more thousands of dollars in interest.

Featherbedding consists of practices by which workers manage to get paid for not working or for performing less work than can reasonably be expected of them. Included are all sorts of work-resisting schemes, one of the most important of which is effective opposition to the introduction of labor-saving machinery.

Sometimes, as in the case of railroads, featherbedding is sanctioned by law. Sometime it is written into labor-management contracts under duress. Sometimes it is imposed by a labor agent on the spot. Often workers, of their own accord, emboldened by the knowledge that as union men they can impose their will on the employer, will slow down on the job in order to get an increase in their pay.

Here are some of the schemes operating in the construction industries:

Bricklayers who used to lay 1,000 bricks a day are now limited to half that number and at greatly increased pay. The slowdown is so great that the workers are forced to resort to loitering on the job and some workers assert it is more tiring to limit oneself to the prescribed number than to lay a normal number of bricks. It is well known that loafing on the job makes the time pass slower and is far less satisfactory to the employer than doing an honest day's work.

Paint brushes may not be more than four inches wide and the use of spray guns is restricted. This often greatly increases the cost for cities, as well as various phases of industry and construction.

Electricians may install only a given number of outlets in a day, carpenters may not hang more than a given number of doors. Union rules require that pipes be threaded on the job, not at the pipe factory, where improved machinery undoubtedly would make it possible to turn out large quantities of threaded pipe at less than one-fourth of the cost required on the job.

In some areas trucks carrying plumbing material must carry a plumber whose only duty is to sit with the driver, thus often requiring the use of two unnecessary men. There must always be at least one journeyman plumber and one helper, in addition to the master plumber, on any job that is performed.

Construction workers waiting for materials are forbidden to help unload the trucks delivering them.

A contractor put up some houses in which he used wooden sashes which had been glazed at the factory. In another he used metal sashes which had been glazed on the job. The union agent decreed that the metal sashes could not be glazed until all the windows in the completed houses had been removed and replaced by his men at union wages.

A standard barometer for measuring the health of the economy is the rate of building construction. If people are in the market for homes it must be because they are earning enough money to afford better living quarters. A demand for homes in turn stimulates a demand for steel, lumber, brick, glass, paint and a thousand and one things that go into the construction and equipping of homes. The whole economy is stimulated. One of the worst impediments to construction is the pushing of the prices of homes beyond the means of the prospective purchasers. The 20 per cent "robbery tax" often means the difference between being able to buy a home and not being able to do so.

Featherbedding is extortion sanctioned by law. If the unions were not immunized from restraint-of-trade laws which apply to other citizens and corporations, featherbedding would be practically impossible.

German Reunification

One of the hardest tasks faced by the western allies in their forthcoming negotiations with Russia on the Berlin crisis will be an attempt to work out an acceptable correction of the blunders made in partitioning Germany at the end of World War II. This task appears to be all but insurmountable but the allies have some hopes of success. Russia wants a solution in which either East Germany or all of Germany would be brought into its sphere.

Sentiment among the German people themselves parallels to a considerable degree that of the western allies and of Russia. The people in West Germany want a free and united Germany while those in East Germany presumably want a Germany united under Russian domination.

As American, British, French and West German foreign ministers met, they were reported to be in substantial agreement on a long-range formula for tying disarmament and European security to a gradual reunification of Germany.

The question of disarmament is so complicated and the suspicion existing between the western allies and West Germany on the one hand and Russia and East Germany on the other hand is so great that if reunification of Germany depends entirely upon a disarmament agreement the chances of reunification appear remote. There is a possibility, however, that the discussions will bring unification closer. If Russia will accept the general allied position of letting Germany work out its own reunification, a peaceful settlement in all likelihood could be effected.

The United States' long-range plan for Germany would take three to five years. It calls for increased economic and political contacts between West and East Germany and then a loose confederation of the divided nation, with a council and consultative assembly. The climax would be free elections to form a unified government, with which the World War II allies could sign a final peace treaty. Thus far, the other nations have never been able to sign a treaty formally ending World War II.

The problem of divided Berlin would be taken care of in the course of German reunification. Nuclear and conventional arms reduction would be tied to the success of the phased-out welding of the two Germanies.

If the segmentation of Germany was not the biggest blunder of the post-war settlement, then it would appear that the allotment of a portion of Berlin, far inside the Russian-dominated area, was the paramount mistake. If there was to be a division of Germany territorially (which probably never should have been permitted) it would seem that the division should have been made into two entirely distinct areas, instead of providing areas within areas.

Probably every nation in the world realizes that the success of German reunification hinges on whether Russia expects to press its plans for domination of the world or whether it eventually will agree to a fair reunification.

How About A Talk On The Level For A Change?

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAY'S

Soviet Universal State Fights Against Buddhism

Among the religions which the Soviet Universal State finds it necessary to destroy is Buddhism which prevails in such countries as Tibet, China, India, Mongolia, Korea, Japan and other countries including parts of Soviet Russia. The influence of Buddhism has been enormous in these countries, particularly in the form of Lamaism which is centered in Tibet and whose votaries accept the Dalai Lama as God.

The method by which this person becomes a god is called metempsychosis which simply means that we are all constantly passing through a succession of lives; that the soul of man never dies, but finds refuge in some living body at the moment which we call death. So, when a dalai lama dies, his soul takes refuge in the body of a babe born at that moment. It is a doctrine of the eternity, the everlastingness, to coin a word, of life. There have been many Buddhas, but the ones most revered are Sakyamuni (Gotama), the founder of Buddhism, and Amitabha (in Chinese, Omito Fuh) who is especially worshipped in Mongolia and Northern China. Another god-person is Kuan Yin, the goddess of mercy, who in distant history was a male but is now universally a female. She is often represented with a child in her arms.

Buddhism is a product of the life, the conduct, the theories of a person who was born, as some say, in 528 B.C., a prince of a small kingdom near Nepal. His name was Gotama, although his clan name is often given as Sakyamuni. At the age of 25, he decided to become a recluse; he left his father's court; lived an ascetic life for five years. He became a beggar and "he entered into a state of reverie, emitting a bright light and reflecting on the four modes of truth."

He gathered disciples whom he trained according to his ideas and whom he sent far and wide to preach his doctrine. Monasteries were established and monastic vows were binding. His teachings are contained in the sutras, or laws, which all Buddhists accept and the possession of copies not only brings knowledge but health and good luck.

Gotama died in 543 B.C. and at the time of his death, his religion was well established throughout India. The central point, sociologically, of his religion was self-denial and good works. Religiously, the central principle of Buddhism is not a god, as the West understands God, but rather the soul of man, which by prayers, alms, austerities and other virtues so perfects itself that it finds lodgings in higher and higher beings until it becomes a god. In a word, Buddhism is a humanistic form of religion. Of course, over the centuries, rites and rituals, idols and other manifestations of gods (Buddhas) and saints or prospective Buddhas (Bodhisattvas) have appeared in the various forms of Buddhism.

Many customs of Buddhism and both Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox Christianity are similar. Abbe Huc, a Roman Catholic priest, who traveled in China and Tibet in the 1840s, described this similarity as he witnessed it at that time, as follows:

"The cross, the mitre, the dalmatica, the cope which the lamas wear on their journeys, or when performing some ceremony out of the temple; the service with double choirs, the psalmody, the exorcisms, the censor suspended from five chains, which you can open or close at pleasure; the benedictions given by extending the right hand over the heads of the faithful; the rosary, ecclesiastical celibacy, spiritual retirement, worship of the saints; the fasts, processions, litanies, and holy water—all these are analogies between ourselves and the Buddhists."

The form of Buddhism prevailing in Tibet and Mongolia and in many parts of China is known as Lamaism. The headquarters of this sect is Lhasa and the head of the church, the Dalai Lama, lives there in the magnificent Potala which is a combined fortress and monastery. It is from the Potala that the Chinese Communists have recently driven the Dalai Lama.

Because of Tibet's inaccessibility, no Chinese government has ever really ruled Tibet, and other foreigners were forbidden to enter it. The government was by monks in the monasteries at the head of whom was the Dalai Lama. Lhasa, where the Dalai Lama resided, was often referred to as "The Forbidden City." This city is now in the hands of the Chinese Communists.

Argue Over Where Business Heading

Imagine you're in a Wall Street executive's suite, listening in on a major policy-making session. Among the men at the conference table are two of the nation's best known economists. Scattered before them are charts and papers black with rows of statistics.

For hours, the question before the meeting has been whether business is heading for a slowdown, or whether the advance to new heights is still strong and solid. And for hours the two economists have been quoting identical statistics to back up each view. Finally, you say: "Look, Joe, you think the advance is losing steam and the last six months of 1958 are going to be sluggish. You, Jim, believe the opposite. Cut the baffle-gab and give me some key parts of the argument in my kind of language." This they do and here is what they tell you.

Joe: Builders are now putting up houses at a rate of more than 1,300,000 a year. This pace can't and won't be maintained. It'll decline to 1,200,000 or so houses, and this will slow the whole economy. Jim: I also expect housing to slow to a 1,200,000-a-year rate, but this many houses will spell a banner year for the industry. This total would be above most optimistic forecasts at the start of the year.

Joe: The steel industry is roaring along at a record pace now, but it won't continue. Strike or no strike, steel production will be way down in the third quarter, and this will adversely affect hundreds of businesses.

Jim: I agree that steel production will be down in the third quarter. But the buying today is in anticipation of a strike and/or price increases—which means today's buying doesn't represent overloading of inventories. Rather, it's sensible advance buying, and the steel being warehoused now will be used up as the year goes on. The buyers will be back. Joe: Auto sales are ahead of 1958, but there's no zip in the industry, and I don't see one coming.

Jim: Here we definitely differ, because I think sales are encouragingly high in view of the fact that everybody knows the Big Three's compact cars are coming, and many buyers must be holding off to see the cars. Sales could jump when the smaller cars come out, and seasonal patterns could be turned upside down. I can foresee a big sales buildup.

Joe: If business spending on new plants would rise sharply, I'd be convinced we're really on our way up, for that sort of activity would quickly absorb our unemployed. But the surveys show only a 4 per cent rise in this spending in 1959 over 1958—not much of a stimulant.

Jim: But this 4 per cent rise signals a new trend, and an end to the cutbacks. And at this stage in economic recoveries, corporations usually understate their spending plans, and they boost the estimates as their sales and profits rise. I think that 4 per cent estimate is low. And one reason I think so is that lots of businessmen have been impressed with the way their new equipment is cutting costs, and they'll step up investments in new plants to cut production costs some more.

Joe: Talking of surveys, the latest one on consumers shows a sharp pickup only in plans to buy houses. No zip coming from consumers.

Jim: But the survey also showed consumers much more optimistic about their own situations, and consumers as well as businessmen tend to raise their spending sights when they feel confident.

Joe: Government spending is rising, but at a slower pace. Jim: Yes, this stimulant is fading, but it's not a negative factor.

Joe: I can't see unemployment going down much for many months. The level of unemployment is a great depressant.

Jim: But if what I see happening in the economy does happen, joblessness will be declining as the year rolls on, and in the meantime, I'm counting on important emergency aid to help the unemployed.

You: There sure are persuasive arguments on both sides.

Me: There sure are, and this sort of debate—with the baffle-gab added—is being held in executive suites the nation over today. No one is forcing me to go on the line, but you've probably guessed it. I'm with Jim.

Some Patients Motor Menaces

A sure way for a doctor to break up a friendly doctor-patient relationship is to say: "You are not healthy enough to drive. For your own sake and that of others on the road, it's not safe for you to get behind the wheel of a car." I recall a man in his late 60s who came for treatment of dizziness. He hadn't had a physical examination since his teens. Not only did he have a blood pressure over 220; he had a severe type of arteriosclerotic heart disease in which he had unpredictable "blackouts" periodically. Add to these impairments, glaucoma which interfered with his "side vision"; and emotional imbalance.

You would not have to be a doctor, knowing these ailments, to determine that this man was a potential danger to himself and others on the highway in a car. Tactfully as I could, I suggested that he had better give up driving. He turned on me like a tiger. "I've been driving all my life," he said. "If I may say so, I'm a darn good driver." And he stalked out of the office.

I never saw him again; but I heard about him again within a few weeks. One day he rammed his big car into a bridge abutment. (Probably during one of his fainting spells.) The papers truly surmised that the accident was probably caused by heart failure. Fortunately, he was the only victim. It might as easily have been another car filled with children that received the impact of the crash.

I remember calling the State Motor Vehicle Department after his office visit. Without mentioning names, I asked what they could do to protect such a man from himself. Could they take his license away to prevent future catastrophe? "Sorry," they said. "If he has his driver's license we can't do a thing about it."

That was quite a few years ago. Have there been changes for the better? Are the states more strict? Are they more strict about renewing licenses?

The answer is "Yes." But —! There are still too many loopholes left. I read of one man recently who had his license renewed without question — even though his eyesight is so poor he cannot see his own fingers wiggle. He renewed his license to prove how lax are some state laws.

I believe it's the doctor's job to warn his patient when one is a poor driving risk. It's up to the patient and the state to take it on from there. Otherwise, namby-pamby warnings such as "DRIVE CAREFULLY" or "THE LIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN" aren't worth the paper they're printed on.

According to Dr. Fletcher D. Woodward, Chairman of A.M.A.s Committee on Medical Aspects of Automobile Injuries and Deaths: "Many people do not realize that they are not healthy enough to drive."

He asked doctors to assess their patients' ability as to:

1. Physical and mental ability to manipulate the controls.
 2. Possibility of excessive fatigue.
 3. Vision and hearing.
 4. Disorders that might cause temporary confusion or sudden loss of consciousness.
 5. Possibility of impairment due to alcohol, drugs, infections, or medical treatment.
 6. Emotional instability.
- Dr. Woodward said: "Human failure overshadows all other factors in the production of highway accidents, and the doctor is the person best able to ascertain the physical, mental, emotional, and physiological impairments of a driver."
- Face reality. Ask yourself "Am I fit to drive?"

Ohio Senators Differ Greatly

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Ohio's two U. S. Senators — Stephen Young and Frank Lausche — while both Democrats, have illustrated in the 86th Congress, first session, first semester, that Gilbert and Sullivan knew their stuff. The famous British comic opera collaborators wrote:

"Often think it comical
How Nature always does contrive
That every boy and every gal
That's born into the world alive —
Is either a little Liberal
Or else a little Conservative."
(Iolanthe Act 2)

Senator Young, who comes first in the couplet although second in Senate service, prefers to put the matter another way. He is a Democrat, he likes to say, without prefix — a regular Democrat. Senator Lausche, several times Ohio's Governor, would never fight his colleague for the right of title to regularity. Lausche is the epitome of go-it-alone individualism.

The men are contrasted in every way except party. Young is small, intense and outgoing. Lausche is large, shaggy, emotional in oratory, but given to a brooding mood in personal demeanor. In the Senate their voting records have often divided like a fork in the road.

The most recent example came on the Area Redevelopment bill, calling for nearly $400 million of community construction by the Federal government. Lausche voted against it. Young cast what the analysts like to call a "crucial" vote in its favor. The bill passed the Senate 49 to 46, but two absent Senators indicated that, if present, they would have voted with the minority. Had they been there and had not Young defeated John Bricker (R) last fall, the two Ohio votes would have gone against the bill. With the Vice President's tie-breaker, this major Democratic effort would have gone down to defeat.

This instance alone would mark Young as an "important" liberal Democrat. But prior to that he gave the Democratic leadership his vote on the huge airport construction bill, while Lausche was being counted in the opposition. The two Ohio Senators were together on the four-year draft, but divided again on the Omnibus Housing bill, although this one takes a little explaining.

Lausche supported a number of amendments to modify the housing bill, which is a dubious piece of legislation on several counts. Both Ohio Senators supported the final passage, where Lausche refused to play dog-in-the-manger. But the senior Senator then exercised his celebrated talent for irregularity and independence. Lausche announced that should President Eisenhower veto the housing bill, he would vote to sustain the disapproval. The spectacle of a non-Southern Democrat backing a Republican President on this sort of issue is one of the rarest sights in Washington.

These two Senators think differently, and yet it would be a mistake to put them down as automatic opposites. They both supported Hawaiian statehood, and both are opposing the Great Lakes Water Diversion project, a measure that would lower the water level around Cleveland in order to supply Chicago with a sanitary canal. This bill has passed the House, and in the Senate will come before the Public Works committee, where Young is a member. Senator Young has also introduced a bill (S. 859) which presumably may get Lausche's approval. It is a measure that would designate the Great Lakes region as eligible for benefits under the Flood Control Act.

Such is the happy diversity of human nature. A Liberal does not always behave as a Liberal. A Conservative, sometimes sheds his spots. Lausche, as Governor, used to express some reservations about Civil Defense expenditures, and as Senator he has generally favored economy almost straight down the line. But it was Young at this present session, and not his senior colleague, who made the most scathing and unanswerable attack upon the Civil Defense boondoggle.

Young, with Lausche-like emotion, laced into the Civil Defense program. He went after the "stupidity" and "futility" of hiring salaried bureaucrats in "sinecures" to squander public money for useless preparations. He denounced the use of Federal funds to draw "matching" funds from the States. He assailed the wasteful dumping of "surplus" machinery in the States on the pretense of making the cities more safe from destruction. He accused the Civil Defense Mobilization director, Leo Hoegh, with empire-building an organization that is already top-heavy with "high-salaried, unnecessary and unproductive" desk-sitters.

Daily Devotional

They went forth and preached every where, the Lord working with them. — Mark 16:20.

After the Day of Pentecost, when the Holy Ghost was come upon the disciples, they started their missionary work. Peter was the first to speak out boldly for Christ and to present the plan of salvation to those gathered to hear him. His formula was: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." It was then that "They gladly received the Word and were baptized; and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls."

Artificial Employment

Because of a practice known as "featherbedding," the cost of building in the United States, including home construction, has been increased 20 per cent. This estimate was made by the Associated General Contractors of America.

Thus, according to the estimate, the construction of a $20,000 home carries a "robbery tax" of $4,000. This confiscation raises the amount remaining to be repaid on many homes by exactly the amount of the fictitious charge and causes the payment of many more thousands of dollars in interest.

Featherbedding consists of practices by which workers manage to get paid for not working or for performing less work than can reasonably be expected of them. Included are all sorts of work-resisting schemes, one of the most important of which is effective opposition to the introduction of labor-saving machinery.

Sometimes, as in the case of railroads, featherbedding is sanctioned by law. Sometime it is written into labor-management contracts under duress. Sometimes it is imposed by a labor agent on the spot. Often workers, of their own accord, emboldened by the knowledge that as union men they can impose their will on the employer, will slow down on the job in order to get an increase in their pay.

Here are some of the schemes operating in the construction industries:

Bricklayers who used to lay 1,000 bricks a day are now limited to half that number and at greatly increased pay. The slowdown is so great that the workers are forced to resort to loitering on the job and some workers assert it is more tiring to limit oneself to the prescribed number than to lay a normal number of bricks. It is well known that loafing on the job makes the time pass slower and is far less satisfactory to the employer than doing an honest day's work.

Paint brushes may not be more than four inches wide and the use of spray guns is restricted. This often greatly increases the cost for cities, as well as various phases of industry and construction.

Electricians may install only a given number of outlets in a day, carpenters may not hang more than a given number of doors. Union rules require that pipes be threaded on the job, not at the pipe factory, where improved machinery undoubtedly would make it possible to turn out large quantities of threaded pipe at less than one-fourth of the cost required on the job.

In some areas trucks carrying plumbing material must carry a plumber whose only duty is to sit with the driver, thus often requiring the use of two unnecessary men. There must always be at least one journeyman plumber and one helper, in addition to the master plumber, on any job that is performed.

Construction workers waiting for materials are forbidden to help unload the trucks delivering them.

A contractor put up some houses in which he used wooden sashes which had been glazed at the factory. In another he used metal sashes which had been glazed on the job. The union agent decreed that the metal sashes could not be glazed until all the windows in the completed houses had been removed and replaced by his men at union wages.

A standard barometer for measuring the health of the economy is the rate of building construction. If people are in the market for homes it must be because they are earning enough money to afford better living quarters. A demand for homes in turn stimulates a demand for steel, lumber, brick, glass, paint and a thousand and one things that go into the construction and equipping of homes. The whole economy is stimulated. One of the worst impediments to construction is the pushing of the prices of homes beyond the means of the prospective purchasers. The 20 per cent "robbery tax" often means the difference between being able to buy a home and not being able to do so.

Featherbedding is extortion sanctioned by law. If the unions were not immunized from restraint-of-trade laws which apply to other citizens and corporations, featherbedding would be practically impossible.

German Reunification

One of the hardest tasks faced by the western allies in their forthcoming negotiations with Russia on the Berlin crisis will be an attempt to work out an acceptable correction of the blunders made in partitioning Germany at the end of World War II. This task appears to be all but insurmountable but the allies have some hopes of success. Russia wants a solution in which either East Germany or all of Germany would be brought into its sphere.

Sentiment among the German people themselves parallels to a considerable degree that of the western allies and of Russia. The people in West Germany want a free and united Germany while those in East Germany presumably want a Germany united under Russian domination.

As American, British, French and West German foreign ministers met, they were reported to be in substantial agreement on a long-range formula for tying disarmament and European security to a gradual reunification of Germany.

The question of disarmament is so complicated and the suspicion existing between the western allies and West Germany on the one hand and Russia and East Germany on the other hand is so great that if reunification of Germany depends entirely upon a disarmament agreement the chances of reunification appear remote. There is a possibility, however, that the discussions will bring unification closer. If Russia will accept the general allied position of letting Germany work out its own reunification, a peaceful settlement in all likelihood could be effected.

The United States' long-range plan for Germany would take three to five years. It calls for increased economic and political contacts between West and East Germany and then a loose confederation of the divided nation, with a council and consultative assembly. The climax would be free elections to form a unified government, with which the World War II allies could sign a final peace treaty. Thus far, the other nations have never been able to sign a treaty formally ending World War II.

The problem of divided Berlin would be taken care of in the course of German reunification. Nuclear and conventional arms reduction would be tied to the success of the phased-out welding of the two Germanies.

If the segmentation of Germany was not the biggest blunder of the post-war settlement, then it would appear that the allotment of a portion of Berlin, far inside the Russian-dominated area, was the paramount mistake. If there was to be a division of Germany territorially (which probably never should have been permitted) it would seem that the division should have been made into two entirely distinct areas, instead of providing areas within areas.

Probably every nation in the world realizes that the success of German reunification hinges on whether Russia expects to press its plans for domination of the world or whether it eventually will agree to a fair reunification.

How About A Talk On The Level For A Change?

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAY'S

Soviet Universal State Fights Against Buddhism

Among the religions which the Soviet Universal State finds it necessary to destroy is Buddhism which prevails in such countries as Tibet, China, India, Mongolia, Korea, Japan and other countries including parts of Soviet Russia. The influence of Buddhism has been enormous in these countries, particularly in the form of Lamaism which is centered in Tibet and whose votaries accept the Dalai Lama as God.

The method by which this person becomes a god is called metempsychosis which simply means that we are all constantly passing through a succession of lives; that the soul of man never dies but finds refuge in some living body at the moment which we call death. So, when a dalai lama dies, his soul takes refuge in the body of a babe born at that moment. It is a doctrine of the eternity, the everlastingness, to coin a word, of life.

There have been many Buddhas, but the ones most revered are Sakyamuni (Gotama), the founder of Buddhism, and Amitabha (in Chinese, Omoto Fuh) who is especially worshipped in Mongolia and Northern China. Another god-person is Kuan Yin, the goddess of mercy, who in distant history was a male but is now universally a female. She is often represented with a child in her arms.

Buddhism is a product of the life, the conduct, the theories of a person who was born, as some say, in 623 B.C., a prince of a small kingdom near Nepal. His name was Gotama, although his clan name is often given as Sakyamuni. At the age of 25, he decided to become a recluse; he left his father's court; lived an ascetic life for five years. He became a beggar and "he entered into a state of reverie, emitting a bright light and reflecting on the four modes of truth."

He gathered disciples whom he trained according to his ideas and whom he sent far and wide to preach his doctrine. Monasteries were established and monastic vows were binding. His teachings are contained in the sutras, or laws, which all Buddhists accept and the possession of copies not only brings knowledge but health and good luck.

Gotama died in 543 B.C. and at the time of his death, his religion was well established throughout India. The central point, sociologically, of his religion was self-denial and good works. Religiously, the central principle of Buddhism is not a god, as the West understands God, but rather the soul of man, which by prayers, alms, austerities and other virtues so perfects itself that it finds lodgings in higher and higher beings until it becomes a god. In a word, Buddhism is a humanistic form of religion. Of course, over the centuries, rites and rituals, idols and other manifestations of gods (Buddhas) and saints or prospective Buddhas (Bodhisattvas) have appeared in the various forms of Buddhism.

Many customs of Buddhism and both Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox Christianity are similar. Abbe Huc, a Roman Catholic priest, who traveled in China and Tibet in the 1840s, described this similarity as he witnessed it at that time, as follows:

"The cross, the mitre, the dalmatica, the cope which the lamas wear on their journeys, or when performing some ceremony out of the temple; the service with double choirs, the psalmody, the exorcisms, the censor suspended from five chains, which you can open or close at pleasure; the benedictions given by extending the right hand over the heads of the faithful; the rosary, ecclesiastical celibacy, spiritual retirement, worship of the saints; the fasts, processions, litanies, and holy water—all these are analogies between ourselves and the Buddhists."

The form of Buddhism prevailing in Tibet and Mongolia and in many parts of China is known as Lamaism. The headquarters of this sect is Lhasa and the head of the church, the Dalai Lama, lives there in the magnificent Potala which is a combined fortress and monastery. It is from the Potala that the Chinese Communists have recently driven the Dalai Lama.

Because of Tibet's inaccessibility, no Chinese government has ever really ruled Tibet, and other foreigners were forbidden to enter it. The government was by monks in the monasteries at the head of whom was the Dalai Lama. Lhasa, where the Dalai Lama resided, was often referred to as "The Forbidden City." This city is now in the hands of the Chinese Communists.

You: There sure are persuasive arguments on both sides.

Me: There sure are, and this sort of debate—with the baffle-gab added—is being held in executive suites the nation over today. No one is forcing me to go on the line, but you've probably guessed it. I'm with Jim.

Face reality. Ask yourself "Am I fit to drive?"

ON GOVERNOR'S RACE

Long Says Rainach Can't Be Elected

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Gov. Earl Long, while being evasive about running for re-election, predicted Friday that if state Sen. W. M. Rainach of Summerfield runs for governor he won't be elected.

Long addressed the opening session of the Louisiana Assn. of Registrars of Voters annual convention. His talk was predicted, but unscheduled.

The governor said Rainach, chairman of the state legislative committee on segregation, is "a good boy. If I didn't give him money, he wouldn't be operating now."

"I hope he runs for governor. He'd get lots of votes," too. But he wouldn't be elected," Long said. Rainach has been conducting a statewide series of clinics for vote registrars. He reminded them that they could be removed from office for failing to enforce state registration laws strictly.

An agent of the U. S. Civil Rights Commission recently met with registrars in Caddo and Webster parishes, saying he was investigating complaints of voting rights denials. The registrars refused to let the agent see parish vote records, on advice from Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion.

Long told the registrars: "If Negroes qualify, let them register. If you don't, one day you'll be sorry. I don't think we'd have any trouble with the colored people if it wasn't for Communists and smart alecs." He said he thought "everyone should be permitted to register. What about all these old white-haired people that can't read or write? In some cases they're more intelligent than those overeducated folks."

Long said he would seek re-election "if I think I can be elected unless I spring a leak or something."

He told the Louisiana Municipal Assn. Thursday at Baton Rouge he "wouldn't run if I didn't think I had a chance" and "it looks like there's some chance of me being a candidate."

Under state law, the governor cannot succeed himself. But Long told newsmen he could resign in September in time to qualify as a candidate for reelection in the December primary.

Citing a case in Winn Parish where a registration official was censured for allowing registration rolls to leave the office, Long said he seeks nothing wrong in taking the rolls to voters on certain occasions. The Winn incident occurred after Long called for determined efforts by vote officials in the area to get more voters on the rolls.

"I want you to know I'm your friend so long as you do right. Doing right doesn't mean you have to vote for me or wear my pants," Long said.

The registrars will elect officers at the closing session Saturday.

2 Are Injured In Auto Mishap

Two youths were injured, and two escaped injury, last night when the car in which they were riding went out of control and turned over 2½ miles north of Chapel Hill Church on Louisiana Highway 15. The accident occurred shortly after 11 p.m.

Injured and taken to St. Francis hospital by Kilpatrick Ambulance were Marvin Butler, 16, and Bob Lawson, a teenager. They were described as residents of Farmerville.

The Butler youth received bruises and abrasions on his arms, and the other victim was not believed in serious condition. Also in the car were Bobby Butler and another unidentified youth, also of Farmerville.

BY DEMOCRAT SENATOR

Johnson Assailed On Leadership

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) accused Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson Friday of falling down on his job as Senate Democratic leader.

The Michigan Democrat sent a scathing letter to Johnson objecting to the Texan's failure to take a stand on the recently enacted unemployment compensation extension bill. McNamara and other liberal Democrats had backed a stronger version.

McNamara said the incident

"raises serious questions in my mind about Senate majority leadership — or the lack of it."

The attack was the second public complaint from a Democratic liberal about Johnson's stewardship as majority party leader this session. But it took a different slant than the first broadside.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) charged in several Senate speeches that Johnson had imposed one-man rule — or too much leadership — on Senate Democrats. Proxmire said the typical Democratic senator was left out of legislative policy — making McNamara's criticism was viewed as even sharper than Proxmire's and his letter was worded in a tone that was severe even for the blunt Michigan senator.

Charging the jobless pay extension bill showed a "serious breakdown" in Johnson's responsibilities as leader, McNamara asked "just where in this legislative process does the majority leader exercise his functions? What is his function, if not to lead?"

The legislation was passed in the last hours before Congress quit for Easter. President Eisenhower signed it this week. It provided a three-month extension of jobless payments for persons whose compensation periods were running out, but failed to assist workers whose benefits had already expired.

Senate liberals felt the bill would provide little help and go behind a substitute sponsored by McNamara.

Johnson was not in the Senate when the bill was passed after some frantic last-minute maneuvering by House and Senate leaders to reach agreement.

McNamara said in his letter Johnson had refused to take a stand on his substitute because the Senate Finance Committee hadn't finished its study of the issue.

Then, he said, Johnson refused to take a position after the committee acted because the leadership "could not go against" the committee.

McNamara said Johnson's attitude seemed "very strange" to him. When the bill got to the Senate floor, McNamara said "you, of course, were not in the Senate that day."

McNamara's proposal was voted down 49-38. Johnson, who had left Washington had neither "paired" with another senator on it, nor left word what his vote would have been had he been present.

Dungaree-Clad Masked Bandits Rob Bank, Flee

LAWRENCE, Mass. (UPI)—Four dungaree-clad masked bandits held up a branch bank in South Lawrence Friday night and "cleaned out" the vault which contained as much as $20,000.

While one man stood outside beside the getaway car, the other three men, each carrying a gun, leaped over the counters of the Essex Savings Bank and shouted: "This is a stick up! We want to clean out the vault."

The robbers did just that, police said, before fleeing in a 1955 gray and white Buick sedan along Route 114 toward Middleton.

The branch, situated on the outskirts of the city, was opened only a few weeks ago.

Bank officials said they would be unable to determine the exact amount taken pending a complete inventory of records. A spokesman said that the vaults contained "between $10,000 and $20,000."

Moscow radio claimed the rebellion had collapsed and "only bands of insurgents hiding in the mountain" were carrying on the fight.

Other reports received along the border said the Tibetans were continuing the battle on a fairly large scale, although disease and hunger were beginning to take a heavy toll.

Nationalist Chinese intelligence reports received in Taipei said the rebels had turned the Dalai Lama's summer palace south of Lhasa into a strongly-defended fortress.

The reports also said that some Communist Chinese troops had turned against the Peiping regime in Tibet.

The flight of the Dalai Lama, when fully told, undoubtedly will prove to be one of the most thrilling saga's of modern times.

Nehru, explaining to Parliament how poor communications with the northwest frontier were, could only give a brief outline.

He said a runner from Tibet had reached the border last Sunday and announced the Dalai Lama was en route and would seek political asylum.

India Grants Asylum To Tibet Lama

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — India granted political asylum and "respectful treatment" to the Dalai Lama of Tibet Friday, in defiance of Red China.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru announced in a joyous Parliament the 25-year old god-king of three million Tibetans had crossed into India Tuesday night in the northwest section of India's Assam state.

The slight, young Tibetan leader Friday was pushing across rugged Indian mountains and forests putting distance between himself and the Communist Chinese army he eluded in a dramatic flight from his homeland.

However, the danger still was not over and India took what an informed source described as "strong security precautions" on the frontier to prevent Chinese troops from trying to kidnap the Dalai Lama.

A report received here late Friday night said 10,000 Chinese troops had been thrown into south Tibet in a massive attempt to crush the revolt.

Nehru told Parliament the Dalai Lama and the 80 followers with him could not reach Towang until Sunday night. His mother and sister were reported to be in his party.

Towang is less than 20 miles south of the border but it is a section of 20,000-foot mountains and thickly-forested valleys.

It was deemed imperative that the Dalai Lama get out of the area as soon as possible to prevent Chinese troops from crossing the border. The area has appeared on Chinese Communist maps as Chinese territory.

Patrick J. Killen and Ajit K. Das, United Press correspondents who have been ranging along the southern border of Tibet, reported India was taking a very soft-handed stand toward other refugees fleeing Tibet and that those who reached the border were being admitted.

India formally notified Peiping of its decision to grant asylum to the Tibetan god-king by sending to the Red Chinese an official copy of Nehru's speech to Parliament.

The Chinese Communists tried to stop the Dalai Lama's flight from Lhasa, the capital of Tibet, with a massive land and air search throughout southern Tibet.

Informed sources said the Khamba tribe warriors and Tibetan villagers along the flight route foiled the Chinese at every turn.

The Dalai Lama's escape was expected to spur the Tibetan rebels to an even greater effort to throw out the Chinese Communists.

Reports from Kalimpong, on the Indo-Tibet border, said the Reds launched a heavy artillery offensive in southern Tibet Wednesday.

Moscow radio claimed the rebellion had collapsed and "only bands of insurgents hiding in the mountain" were carrying on the fight.

Other reports received along the border said the Tibetans were continuing the battle on a fairly large scale, although disease and hunger were beginning to take a heavy toll.

Nationalist Chinese intelligence reports received in Taipei said the rebels had turned the Dalai Lama's summer palace south of Lhasa into a strongly-defended fortress.

ON GOVERNOR'S RACE

Long Says Rainach Can't Be Elected

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Gov. Earl Long, while being evasive about running for re-election, predicted Friday that if state Sen. W. M. Rainach of Summerfield runs for governor he won't be elected.

Long addressed the opening session of the Louisiana Assn. of Registrars of Voters annual convention. His talk was predicted, but unscheduled.

The governor said Rainach, chairman of the state legislative committee on segregation, is "a good boy. If I didn't give him money, he wouldn't be operating now."

"I hope he runs for governor. He'd get lots of votes, too. But he wouldn't be elected."

Rainach has been conducting a statewide series of clinics for vote registrars. He reminded they could be removed from office for failing to enforce state registration laws strictly.

An agent of the U. S. Civil Rights Commission recently met with registrars in Caddo and Webster parishes, saying he was investigating complaints of voting right denials. The registrars refused to let the agent see parish vote records, on advice from Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion.

Long told the registrars: "If Negroes qualify, let them register. If you don't, one day you'll be sorry. I don't think we'd have any trouble with the colored people if it wasn't for Communists and smart alecs."

He said he thought "everyone should be permitted to register. What about all these old white-haired people that can't read or write? In some cases they're more intelligent than those overeducated folks."

Long said he would seek reelection "if I think I can be elected unless I spring a leak or something."

He told the Louisiana Municipal Assn. Thursday at Baton Rouge he "wouldn't run if I didn't think I had a chance" and "it looks like there's some chance of me being a candidate."

Under state law, the governor cannot succeed himself. But Long told newsmen he could resign in September in time to qualify as a candidate for reelection in the December primary.

Citing a case in Winn Parish where a registration official was censured for allowing registration rolls to leave the office, Long said he seeks nothing wrong in taking the rolls to voters on certain occasions. The Winn incident occurred after Long called for determined efforts by vote officials in the area to get more voters on the rolls.

"I want you to know I'm your friend so long as you do right. Doing right doesn't mean you have to vote for me or wear my pants," Long said.

The registrars will elect officers at the closing session Saturday.

Coleman Rejects Bid To Testify

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. J. P. Coleman rejected an appeal from Mississippi's six U. S. Representatives to testify against proposed civil rights bills in a congressional committee hearing this month, the Jackson Daily News said Friday in a page one story.

Coleman left Wednesday on a two-week vacation of turkey hunting and visiting and looting. The vacation period covers the April 8-15 hearings.

Coleman's office said there would be no comment on the story.

The Daily News printed a March 27 letter from Coleman, signed by his executive assistant Ben Walley, saying in part:

"Gov. Coleman... finds that he has engagements that would be rather difficult to change and

President Flies To Gettysburg For Major Talk

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower Friday flew to Gettysburg, Pa., where Saturday he delivers a major foreign policy speech he hopes will make clear to Americans "the international facts of today's life."

The President, speaking at a Gettysburg College convocation, planned to emphasize the need for greater individual and collective understanding to maintain freedom's fight against Communist dictatorship.

The President will spend the weekend at his farm nearby.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty gave newsmen a brief preview of the President's planned speech before the Chief Executive flew to Gettysburg by helicopter Friday.

He said Eisenhower believed the American people "need to understand our nation's position and role in strengthening the world's free nations which, with us, see our concepts of freedom and human dignity threatened by atheistic dictatorship."

This indicated the President might take the occasion to put in new plugs for his four billion dollar foreign aid program, which is faced with a tough battle in the Democratic - steered Congress.

does not feel that he can accept your invitation.

"As you recall, the governor was one of the few, if not the only Southern governor to appear and testify against this type of legislation in 1957. His position on this type of legislation is well known.

"There are numerous other Mississippians who could no doubt render a valuable service in this connection and the governor suggests that you extend an invitation to Walter Sillers (Speaker of the state House) and Circuit Judge Tom Brady of Brookhaven, and other prominent Mississippians well known to the congressional delegation to express their views at the hearing."

Both Sillers and Brady are prominent segregationists. Both are regarded as political enemies of Coleman.

The letter from the six representatives said in part:

"This is another cry for help. . . .

"As you are aware, the drive is on in both branches of the Congress for even more punitive force bills aimed at Mississippi and the rest of the South, under the guise of civil rights."

"The Southern members of the House are organized to do everything within our power within parliamentary limitation to hold the fort.

"We need the help of every Southern governor and attorney general as well as much other help as we can get."

Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson of Mississippi has accepted the invitation.

The letter was signed by Reps. Thomas Abernethy, Jamie L. Whitten, Frank Smith, John Bell Williams, Arthur Winstead and Bill Colmer, all Democrats.

Work To Begin On New Bridge

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Highway Commissioner Roy Adams reported Friday work is expected to begin soon on the new Mississippi River bridge between Friars Point, Miss., and Helena, Ark. Contracts totaling $9,138,080 have been awarded and Adams said bids will be taken this year to build a highway link between the bridge and U. S. 61 south of Barbee.

Sen. Morton, Retiring GOP Chief Confer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.) took a close look Friday at the GOP leadership post he is expected to inherit next week from retiring Republican National Chairman Meade ALCORN.

Morton and ALCORN held a Washington breakfast conference which was described at GOP headquarters as a "general talk about Sen. Morton's availability" for the chairmanship.

Morton, who flew into Washington Thursday night just to see ALCORN, flew back to Louisville, Ky. Friday without making any formal statement. He already had said he was available for the job if the party asked him to serve.

In Kentucky, Sen. John S. Cooper (R.) forecast Morton's election and said he "will make a great chairman." Cooper said support for Morton in Kentucky "is unanimous and enthusiastic."

"I am confident that he will be selected," Cooper said.

Even before ALCORN's resignation was announced Wednesday, informed sources made it known that Morton was President Eisenhower's first choice for the chairmanship. But party tradition requires the National Committee, meeting in Washington April 10-11, send a formal delegation to ascertain the President's wishes and then conduct its election.

ALCORN said the election will probably be the last event on the national committee's April 11 agenda.

ALCORN said he was resigning reluctantly for personal and professional reasons that require him to return to his Hartford, Conn., law firm. He has served as GOP chairman, without salary, since February 1, 1957.

Morton will remain in the Senate if named party chairman, fellow Republicans said. He was elected to the Senate in 1956 after three years as an assistant secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration and six prior years as a House member.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's business activity fell back slightly in February after a record January level, but is continuing at a high pace.

The Mississippi Business Review, published by the business research station at Mississippi State University, said Friday that the February level was 4 points above January, but was 4 points above any previous month.

The publication said the state "is enjoying business activity 10 per cent above the pre-recession level, whereas the nation as a whole in February barely reached a level 5 per cent above the pre-recession figure."

Mississippi's average income per person last year was $1,040, up 7.7 per cent above 1957.

Employment in the state was relatively high, with the non-farm figure at 376,000 workers. Ordinary life insurance sales were at a new high for the month at $20,998,000, up 1 per cent from January and 33 per cent above the level of February last year.

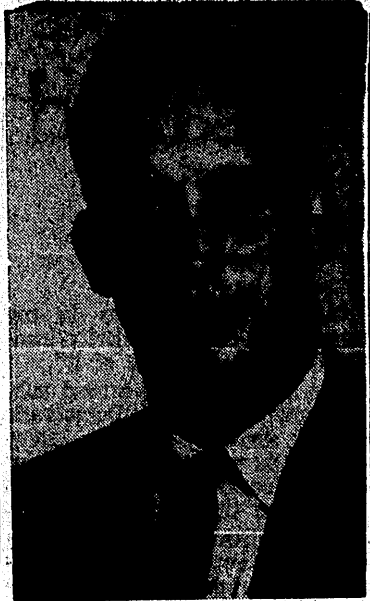

Only the Clarksdale business district showed a loss during February, down 1/2 per cent. The other districts were up compared to February of 1958.

Biloxi-Gulfport and Jackson were up 23 per cent; Corinth 19, Columbus and Meridian, 17, Hattiesburg 14, McComb 13, Laurel and Memphis, Tenn., 11, Pascagoula and Greenville 10, Greenwood 8, Tupelo 6, Natchez 2, and Vicksburg 1.

Legislature Help On Revenue Urged

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A Louisiana Police Jury Assn. official called Friday for aggressive, tightly organized campaigns by city and parish leaders for help in the Louisiana Legislature.

"With the population expansion in Louisiana," said W. W. Dumas, "you're going to have to become more aggressive and you'll have to work together."

The Baton Rouge city-parish councilman, Police Jury Association vice president, spoke at the 22nd annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Assn.

Dumas invited mayors to attend the annual Police Jury Assn. convention in New Orleans, April 12-13, to promote more cooperation.

He listed past failures in the Legislature, citing the failure of bids for more local revenues as due mainly to weak organization.

"For some reason," Dumas said, "I guess the members are afraid, the Legislature won't vote statewide authority for parishes and cities to levy their own one-cent sales tax. But you can always get it through as a local option matter."

In Baton Rouge and East Baton Rouge Parish, Dumas added, "we couldn't operate without it, we'd be in bad shape."

Turning to needle Shreveport Mayor Clyde Fant, Dumas said, "it may come as a shock. . . but by 1975 we'll have a 420,000 population in our Baton Rouge area. We have only 150,000 within the capital city itself now."

Fant, earlier, had noted Baton Rouge showed a lower population than Shreveport in a recent census.

In other speeches, Asst. Atty. Gen. William Bradley explained the state's beer and liquor laws and Robert Angers, editor of the weekly Franklin Banner-Tribune, discussed municipal public relations.

In closing sessions Saturday, the LMA will honor the 1959 "mayor of the year" and consider a number of resolutions, including proposals to:

Call for "rigid and impartial" enforcement of Louisiana's shrimping laws.

Urge restoration of state funds for city policemen's pay, eliminated last year when state finances grew tight. Gov. Earl Long promised Thursday chances were good for the restoration.

Switch primary elections back from Saturday to Tuesday. Long urged mayors to give the new election day a try in a statewide election next December before asking any changes.

Sponsor an LMA program designed to provide information on municipal bonds which would help assure better ratings.

Call on Congress to repeal the federal excise tax on phones.

Ouachita Parish Slates Session For Grand Jury

The Ouachita Parish Grand Jury will be sworn in at 10 a.m. Monday in the Fourth District Courtroom, and immediately begin considering cases placed before them.

Judge David I. Garrett will give the oath for 12 of the 20 persons liable for service on the jury, and appoint the jury foreman.

Officials mentioned that more than 25 cases will be placed before the deliberating body, which will decide whether enough evidence is present in each case for it to go to trial.

Felony trials begin on May 4, and continue through that week and the week of May 18.

Those named to Grand Jury duty are:

Marvin Ramsey, Ward 1; Dewey Simmons, 1; Marshall D. Case, 2; M. B. Adams, W. L. Huckabay, H. T. Poulain, William F. Sherman and R. O. Ware, all of Ward 3; George Knight and W. A. Whitfield Jr., both of Ward 4.

"We are therefore requesting a meeting with you or your representatives for the purpose of negotiating and signing an agreement covering wages, hours of work and other conditions of employment for these employees."

Top level negotiations between Esso and the IWWA recessed Friday, scheduled to begin again early next week.

A Metal Trades Council spokesman said recruiting was all in the white section of the IWWA, but added, "we're pretty strong in the second section (Negro)."

He said recruiting in section two would be in a separate drive.

were fired, the Metal Trades Council quietly signed up Esso employees until Friday, when president Lonnie A. Bassett released a letter addressed to Esso General Manager H. J. Voorhies:

"This is to inform you that the Baton Rouge Metal Trades Council AFL-CIO represents a majority of the products and maintenance employees in your Baton Rouge plant."

"We are therefore requesting a meeting with you or your representatives for the purpose of negotiating and signing an agreement covering wages, hours of work and other conditions of employment for these employees."

Top level negotiations between Esso and the IWWA recessed Friday, scheduled to begin again early next week.

A Metal Trades Council spokesman said recruiting was all in the white section of the IWWA, but added, "we're pretty strong in the second section (Negro)."

He said recruiting in section two would be in a separate drive.

The notification to Esso was a form letter sent before filing a petition with the National Labor Relations Board for official recognition as bargaining agent.

IWWA workers met Friday night in a gathering sponsored by the National Federation of Independent Oil Unions, headed by Elmo Rogers, president of the Allied Oil Workers Union at Ethyl Corp.

The purpose of the meeting was to encourage the IWWA to remain independent.

Body Chemistry Resists Cancer

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (UPI)—Anti-cancer scientists were reported excited Friday over the possibility of using the body's own self-protecting chemistry to fight off a cancerous invader or even to prevent such an invader from getting a start.

Such a technique, in the remote future, perhaps, but nonetheless a very real possibility, stems from the discovery of what appears to be chemical substances manufactured in the body that provide a start toward protection against a particular cancer.

The discovery was described by Dr. George Moore, director of the Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., at a meeting here sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Attack Is Fatal For Brother Of Harold Stassen

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—A. H. Stassen, brother of former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen, died of a heart attack Friday just after testifying before a state legislative committee.

Stassen, 49, was director of the Petroleum Division of the state Tax Department.

Witnesses said he sat down "only for a minute" after his testimony before the House Agriculture Committee when he was stricken. An ambulance rushed to the state capitol, but Stassen was pronounced dead when it arrived. Stassen had a history of heart ailments, a physician said. He is survived by a wife and four children.

The new cancer discovery has to do with antigens, which are anything that excite body chemistry into producing anti-bodies designed to destroy and attack the antigen. Antigen action underlies the principle of vaccination and of the body's acquired immunities to many diseases. Moore and his Roswell Park associates compared 20 cancers chemically with the normal tissues of the human organs where the cancers originated. They were different, of course, but the main point was that in over one half of the cases they were antigenically different. That is, chemical antagonisms, which in bacterial and viral diseases produce antibodies, were underway.

This is important. Indeed, the first tremendous breakthrough in the conquest of cancer may well come in this field. But so much more work remains to be done with the basic discovery that Moore himself was not predicting the future.

"Yes," said Moore in response to a question at the seminar, "a vaccine against cancer is possible, but it is so far away."

It is far away for many reasons, he said. There are all sorts of differences between the malignant cells which cause one kind of cancer and those which cause another kind. The differences are apparent, and yet they are hard to classify. You would need a separate vaccine for each difference in chemistry. Nevertheless, Moore was confident. "We'll knock off cancers one by one, just as it happened with the bacterial diseases," he said, referring to the discoveries which permitted the making of vaccines each one of which prevents just one bacterial disease and no more.

Pentagon Provides Advice On Horses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Don't try to tell young Philip Peatman the U.S. Cavalry comes to the rescue only on television these days. He asked a horse soldier for help and got it.

The 11-year-old Madera, Calif., boy and his two brothers have a horse. The horse is 19 years old and set in its ways. Among its habits is the tendency to bolt for the corral when it is being ridden toward home.

After some bone-shaking rides, Philip turned to the best source of advice he could imagine. He sent a letter to the chief of cavalry, U.S. Army.

"I would like to know how would you stop him from running back from the corral," he wrote. "No matter how hard we pull, he won't stop."

Now the Army hasn't got a chief of cavalry. It does have a few horses left, but their assignment is to pull funeral caissons at Arlington National Cemetery.

But the Army still has some horsemen. When Philip's letter arrived at the Pentagon, the same administrative machinery that daily processes the problems of missile-age defense found the right man to answer it.

Brig. Gen. Fran S. Henry fired off a letter loaded with suggestions to handle the recalcitrant Peatman mount.

Noting that "in years past, we frequently have had the same problems with our horses," Henry told Philip to ask his father if he could use a double bridle with both curb and snaffle bit.

If the snaffle bit fails to control the horse, the curb bit should be used, the general said. He warned Philip to watch out for trouble, however. Some horses don't take well to curb bits.

Another possibility, he said, would be to rein firmly on one side when the horse begins to run, making him run in a circle until he slows down. Then start for the corral again, repeating the circling process if he takes off too fast again.

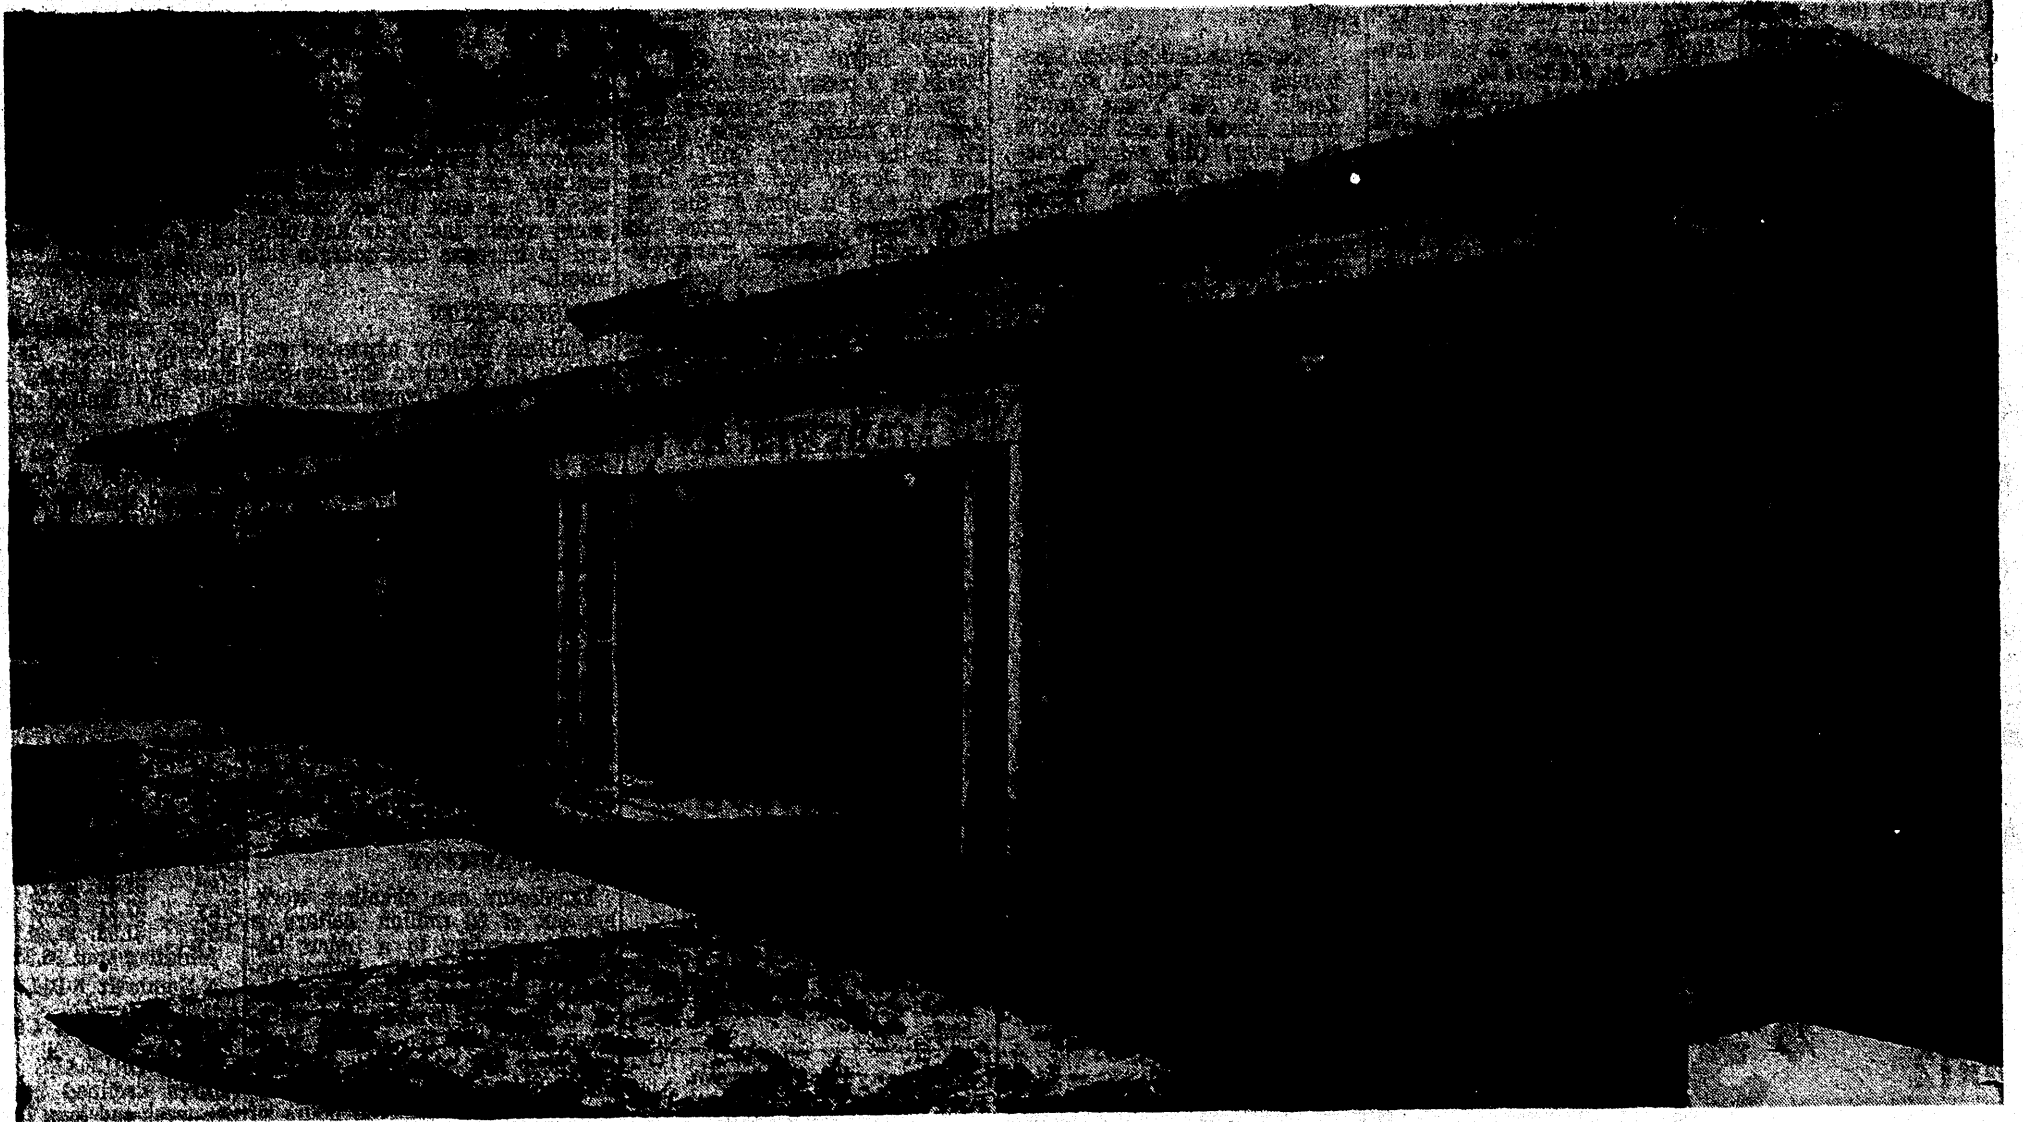

"I fully realize that it is pretty hard to teach a 19-year-old horse any new tricks," the general wrote. But he said the Army suggestions might help provide "a more pleasant ride."

Gen. Henry, of course, has only a nostalgic connection with horses now. His title is chief of the armored branch and he commands the rumbling tanks that sent the cavalry horse into limbo years ago.

A MESSAGE FROM THE KILPATRICK FAMILY

Having operated funeral homes in Farmerville, Ruston and Bernice for many years, we decided in 1953 to establish a Kilpatrick Funeral Home in West Monroe, a thriving city which at that time did not have a funeral home domiciled in it.

Locating on Cypress Street, we set out to provide the kind of funeral service which had met with much success in Farmerville, Ruston and Bernice. Our kind of service has proved so satisfactory to the people of this section that we became convinced that the building of as fine a funeral home as can be found anywhere was fully warranted.

We are proud of the new Kilpatrick Funeral Home in West Monroe, and we sincerely hope you will visit it Saturday or Sunday.

Demons Defeat Northeast, 3-2, In Conference Opener

By BOB ANDERSON
Northwestern lefthander Bob Welsh, wild and wobbly, set Northeast down on four hits and left 15 runners stranded as the Demons edged the Indians, 3-2, in the Gulf States Conference opener for both clubs here Friday.

Demon first sacker Kemp "Flash" Gordon sent a towering fly over the left field fence with two on in the first inning for the Northwestern runs and Welsh made them stand up.

Northeast had the New York southpaw on the ropes on numerous occasions, putting runners on in every inning and had two aboard with one out in the ninth. The Indians picked up single runs in the sixth and seventh and left the bases filled in the seventh. George Luffey's Redskins had two or more men on in the five innings. Welsh, fighting wildness all the way, walked nine and his teammates made seven errors behind him. He fanned nine.

All of the game's runs were unearned.

Indian lefthander Terry Reeves settled down after giving up Gordon's homer in the first and scattered seven hits effectively before giving way to James Mock in the ninth.

Northeast, picked by league coaches to finish third in the conference after a second-place windup in 1958 and winner of two straight over the Demons in the Easter Tournament last week takes on Southeastern, picked for second, in a doubleheader here today starting at 1:30.

Lefty Jay Gross and righty Jerry Rouse are scheduled to throw for the Indians.

Reeves started his own downfall in the first by fumbling brother Larry Reeves' grounder down the third base line. Ralph Conrad got on with a fielder's choice as Reeves was forced.

Ike McMullen then dropped Billy Jack Booth's sinking fly to center and Conrad took second. Gordon saw a strike and a ball before lofting a high blast over the left field wall.

Northeast started its series of empty threats in their half of the first as James Mock and McMullen walked, with Mock gaining third on an infield out.

Northwestern, the coaches' choice to tie for fourth in the six-school GSC, lost a run in the second when outfielder Ed Dranguet didn't touch third base. Dranguet had gone from second home on a single by Conrad but missed the hot corner.

Northeast sent a man as far as third again in the third frame and pushed over its first run in the sixth.

Gary Huckaby singled and advanced when Welsh fielded Buddy O'Conner's tap back to the mound and threw wild attempting a force at second.

George Bryan fled out but Huckaby went to third when O'Conner was forced at second on Phil Petras' fielder's choice.

Freddy Peters brought Huckaby home with a single between first and second. Reeves, however, fled to center for the third out.

The Indians had the tall Mr. Welsh up to his ears in trouble in the seventh, scoring one run and loading the bases.

Red Rushing, leading off, reached first on Booth's error. Mock walked and Rushing went to third on a wild pitch. McMullen brought Rushing home with a grounder that Gordon booted. Two men were on and nobody was out.

Huckaby advanced the runners with a grounder to the mound but O'Conner hit one to third and Mock was cut down at the plate for the second out.

Welsh kept the rally alive by walking George Bryan but Petras grounded back to the mound to end the inning.

The Tribe made another bid in the eighth. Reeves doubled with one out. Rushing fled out but Mock walked. McMullen then slapped a grounder to Gordon at first. Flash booted it but recovered in time to throw out Reeves, who came all the way from second on the play, at the plate for the third out.

Reeves was injured slightly in the putout at the plate and Mock came in from left to hurl the Demon ninth, allowing one hit.

Indian coach George Luffey pulled out all the stops in the ninth, using two pinch-hitters and two pinch-runners. Huckaby fanned to open the frame but O'Conner and Homer Rouse, batting for Bryan, walked.

Eddie McGowan went in to run for Rouse and Ward for O'Conner. Petras struck out and Luffey sent Louis Kincaid, making his first appearance of the season, up to swing for Peters. The right-handed batter fled out to short to end the game.

Conrad was the game's top hitter with 3-5 and Larry Reeves, Booth and Gordon each got two safeties. Nobody got more than one for Northeast.

100-METER DASH

Olympic Champ Nips Murchison

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow nipped Ira Murchison in the last five yards Friday night to win the featured 100-meter dash of the Texas Relays.

The time was 10.2—one-tenth of a second over the world's record.

Murchison broke in front after Morrow had once jumped the gun and led the Olympic star by a yard until they neared the tape. Morrow caught Murchison with his lunge and beat him by a bare six inches.

Houtteman Returned To Tigers By A's

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics sent three pitchers back to the minors Friday and returned veteran Art Houtteman to the Detroit organization to trim their roster to the opening day limit of 28 men.

Howard Reed and Ken Johnson were optioned to the Athletics' Portland, Ore., farm club of the Pacific Coast League. Dave Hill was sent to the Kansas City minor league camp at Pensacola, Fla., for reassignment.

Houtteman, 31, was purchased unconditionally during the winter from Charleston, W. Va., a Detroit farm club. The Athletics reportedly would have paid $25,000 for his contract had they kept him. Houtteman pitched 12 innings this spring in which he gave seven hits and one run.

The Athletics also sent Nini Nornay, a catcher, back to Portland. He was not on the Kansas City roster.

Griffith Seeks Cancellation On Loes Deal

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—President Cal Griffith of the Washington Senators Friday said he will ask Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to void a deal in which the Baltimore Orioles sent sore-armed Billy Loes to the Nats.

Griffith said the Senators' team physician had found Loes, an outspoken right-hander, to have an incomplete rupture of the right arm near the shoulder. The physician recommended surgery, but said there is only a 50-50 chance of recovery from the ailment.

Griffith added that Lee MacPhail, Orioles' general manager, had told him Loes' arm was sound before the Tuesday swap which gave Baltimore right-hander Vito Valentinetti.

Loes was sent to Washington for the examination Thursday after reporting to the Senators and complaining of a sore arm.

Loes, 29, had a 3-9 record with the Orioles last year, his eighth season in the majors. He broke in with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1950 and had his top year in '53 with the Dodgers with a 14-8 record.

In New York, Frick offered no comment pending an official request from Griffith.

Griffith also said that his attempts to obtain a shortstop do not include negotiations for the Orioles' Willie Miranda, who reported to spring training Thursday, 36 days late.

Clive Gustin of McNeese and Tommy Levy of SLI also had two-run homers.

Indian Trackmen Take On Northwestern, Tech Today

Northeast takes on improving GSC foes Northwestern and Louisiana Tech today in a triangular track meet at Natchitoches.

"Due to our loss of Hagan and Williams, I expect it to be a very close triangle," said Coach Lew Hartzog. Hagan has been out since winning the pole vault at the Northwestern Recreation Meet, March 14, when he injured his foot, and Williams re-injured his ankle in the 2-mile run at Florida this past weekend.

Both Northeast and Tech participated in the Florida Relays Saturday against some of the top universities in the country. Led by the Styrons twins, the Indians pressed SEC Champion LSU, the winning team, closely in the century, the hurdles and the 440-yard relay.

Hartack Seeks 3rd Big Triumph

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bill Hartack, one of the nation's leading jockeys for the past three years, goes after his third straight $100,000 added Florida Derby Saturday and odds at 9-5 he'll win it.

Hartack will ride Spring Hill Farm's Easy Spur, a 3-year-old gelding seeking his fifth straight victory at Gulfstream Park. Easy Spur, owned by Jim Norris of Coral Gables, Fla., never has been beaten on this track and his recent triumphs include the Hutchison and Fountain of Youth Stakes.

Easy Spur has the advantage of breaking from the inside post position in the mile and an eighth feature which will have its eighth running with nine Derby-age horses competing.

Hartack won the 1957 Florida Derby on Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke in track record time of 1:46 4-5 and last year he triumphed aboard Tim Tam also owned by Calumet.

Main competition for Easy Spur and Hartack is expected from Bayard Sharp's Troilus, winner of the Flamingo at Hialeah in February and Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer, fifth in the Hutchison and winner of his last at a mile and 70 yards.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Rare Rice also will draw support from the 25,000 fans expected. He was third in four stakes and fourth in the Flamingo. Rare Rice won third money in the Hibiscus, Bahamas, Everglades and Fountain of Youth.

The five other Florida Derby starters are outsiders and a win by any of them would shock the experts. They are Briardale Farm Rice Tesio, J. E. McAuliffe's McLellan, John W. Kane's Revolutionist, Norwood Farm's Master Palynch and S. H. Helene Sadacca's The Chosen One.

Chris Rogers will ride Troilus, with Sam Boumetts on Rare Dancer, Jack Leonard on Rare Rice, Walter Blum on Rice Tesio, Logan Batcheller on McLellan, Bill Harmaiz on Revolutionist, R. L. Stevenson on Master Palynch and James Combost on The Chosen One.

With nine starters, the Florida Derby will gross $116,400 and net with winner $75,300, with $20,000 to second, $10,000 to third, $7,000 to fourth and $3,000 to the fifth place finisher.

A fast track is in prospect and Florida's last big race for Derby-age horses will be televised nationally by CBS from 4:30 to 5 p.m., EST, with post time 4:45 p.m.

'Sports' Revived As Amateur Club

The Monroe Sports, who died in 1956, were revived last night, this time as an entry in the proposed North Louisiana-South Arkansas amateur baseball league.

Northeast baseball coach George Luffey was elected the president of the club at a meeting last night and the name "Sports" was adopted as the team's official nickname.

The original Sports, a member of the class C professional league, went out of business when the league disbanded in 1956.

Elected with Luffey to serve as the club's officers were businessman Ed Hemphill, vice president, sports writer Bob Anderson, secretary, and businessman Leo McStravick, treasurer.

School teacher Bob Carter, ex-Ouachita athlete and a former pro baseballer, was named the team's manager.

Named to the board of directors, in addition to the officers, were Leo Kay, Allen Jones, Edd Routt, Bobby Sadler, Wayne Tanner, Gene Pettit, J. D. Reeves and Gene Ridings.

In addition, the members of the board of directors of the Monroe Little League, represented at last night's meeting by Saul Adler, R. D. Farr Jr. and Jack Hesketh, will also be on the board of the Sports. They are Adler, Hesketh, Farr, Paul Martin, Buddy Blair, Carol Royce, George Moses, Red Swanson, Mose Loftin, Frank Reitzell, Sam Rubin Jr. and Stickey Steel.

The new officers will represent Monroe at the next league meeting, set for Sunday, April 12, in West Monroe's City Hall.

The new league, first proposed by Bastrop businessman Leonard Pratt, would be a six or eight club circuit for boys 18 and over without professional experience. Games would be played on Friday nights and Sunday afternoons. Players would not be allowed to play on teams outside the parish in which they are residing.

Other teams besides Monroe which are expected to field teams in the league are Bastrop, which has already elected club officers, Oak Grove, Delhi, and Crossett. Ark. Other possible entries are West Monroe, Lake Providence, Farmerville and Rayville.

Monroe's home games will probably be played in Legion Stadium, Luffey said. A 28-game schedule has been proposed for the league, 14 games at home and 14 on the road.

The Monroe club directors plan, subject to approval by the still semi-organized league, to field a squad of 18 players with a sponsor for each player.

The sponsorships are to sell for $40.

INITIAL LOOP WIN

Ouachita Tops Rebels, 3-2, With First Inning Outburst

By JIM CALHOUN

Staff Sports Writer

Ouachita packed all its scoring punch in the first inning and veteran righthander Bob Saterfield was tight in the pinches as the Lions turned back District 1-AAA rival West Monroe, 3-2, at the Rebel Field Friday afternoon.

The win was the first conference victory of the year for Coach Pat Patterson's cellar-dwelling Ouachita nine. The Lions now stand 1-3 in loop play and 2-4 on the overall season. The Rebels evened out at 3-3 for the campaign and 2-2 against 1-AAA foes.

Ouachita gave Saterfield a three-run cushion in the initial frame and that was all the hard-throwing Lion ace needed, although the Rebels threatened frequently and left a total of ten runners stranded on base.

Hustling shortstop James Cromwell led off the first inning with a walk off Ronnie Haile, who went all the way for Coach Dan McClure's Rebels. Harry Crowe sacrificed him to second and Tommy Crowe drove him home with a solid single.

Ken Saterfield, brother of the winning hurler, socked another hit to score Crowe with the second tally. After Saterfield had stolen second, Ervin Bates punched out the third single of the frame, to send Saterfield across the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

West Monroe had numerous scoring opportunities but Saterfield kept the hosts at bay until the sixth when two unearned runs spoiled his shutout. Sick-fielding first baseman Charley Dykes opened the sixth with a hard smash to third and was safe when Bubba Via muffed it.

The next batter, Buck Fox, sent another grounder to third and Via's throw to second in attempt to force Dykes was wide and both runners were safe. Tommy Lolley moved the runners up with an infield out and then shortstop Leon Miletello slashed a single to left to score the two Confederate tallies. Saterfield ended the scoring by getting Haile on strikes and Roscoe Holcomb on a fly to center.

The Rebels loaded the bases in the fourth on a double by Dykes and two walks but Haile grounded out to halt the uprising. In the third and fifth the losers put two men on the sacks but couldn't manage a run.

Saterfield doled out six free passes and struck out four while Haile fanned four and walked four.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies pounded right-handers Milt Pappas and Wes Stock for 12 hits, including home runs by Harry Anderson and Carl Sawatski, for a 7-2 exhibition victory over Baltimore Friday night.

Jim Owens and Jack Meyer held the Orioles to four hits.

Ed Bouchie, who belted three singles, Anderson and Sawatski accounted for two runs each. The other Phillie run scored on a Pappas wild pitch.

Both Baltimore tallies came in the first inning. Gene Woodling, Gus Triandos and Billy Klauz bounced singles and Al Pilarcik drew a bases-loaded walk. Thereafter, until he yielded to Meyer in the eighth, the 25-year-old Owens completely throttled the Orioles.

The other Baltimore hit was a double in the eighth by Joe Ginsburg, off Meyer.

YANKS—DODGERS
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—The New York Yankee pitching staff continued to shine Friday as rookie John Gabler and Zack Monroe blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0.

Second baseman Gil McDougald homered for the only run of the day. The 390-footer over the left field wall in the second inning was one of three hits the Bombers made off Don Drysdale, who worked eight innings, and veteran Art Fowler.

The Dodgers made only two hits. Junior Gilliam led off the game with a double down the right field line and catcher John Roseboro beat out a bunt after one out in the ninth.

Gabler, a 19-game winner in the American Assn. with Denver last year, walked three batters in the fourth but fanned Duke Snider and retired Roseboro on a soft hopper to squeeze out of that jam.

The Yankee pitching staff, which was believed to be the club's weakest link, has allowed only nine runs in the last six games.

Chicago collected seven hits, two each by Nellie Fox and Norm Cash, but were shut out for eight innings by Lindy McDaniel and Howie Nunn. The White Sox got to Marv Grissom for a run in the ninth on singles by Fox, Cash and Al Smith.

Then he settled down and blanked the Tribe the rest of the way.

Skowron To Be Flown Home For Treatment

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Bill Skowron, the New York Yankees' injured first baseman, will be flown home Sunday for further treatment of the strained sacroiliac muscle in the lower left portion of his back.

Skowron injured himself while reaching for a ground ball Thursday in St. Petersburg. He will receive ultrasonic treatment and massage here until he leaves for New York. The treatments will be continued in New York next week under Dr. Sidney Gaynor, team physician.

It is still doubtful Skowron will be ready to open the season on April 10. The Yankees break camp Monday and play in Savannah, Ga., Tuesday and Richmond, Va., Wednesday.

Tech Takes 9-3 Win Over Lions

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Second baseman Jim Orton slammed a three-run homer to highlight a Louisiana Tech five-run third inning and the Bulldogs went on to take an easy 9-3 victory from Southeastern here yesterday in the Gulf States Conference opener for both clubs.

Stylish southpaw Sonny Parker went the route for Tech, allowing only seven hits waiking two and striking out 12. Roland Oubre, Lion freshman righthander, suffered his first loss after three wins. The victory was Parker's third straight without a defeat.

Parker had permitted only two infield hits and only one ball had been hit to the outfield until the Lions rallied for three runs in the seventh.

After two were out, Jerry Salamone singled to right and John Dayries walked in the Lion seventh. Then SLC relief hurler Bob Mullings blasted a three-run homer to right field.

Tech got five runs in the third, two in the fourth, one in the sixth and one in the eighth. In the third, Parker walked and B. K. Miller was safe on an error. Clyde Thompson rounded out and Orton followed with his three-run blast.

With two out, Jack Moreland walked and Glen Schuler singled to right. Charles Garriss walked to fill the bases and Lonnie Carlisle singled to center, scoring Moreland. Schuler scored when the throw to the plate was high.

In the fourth, Miller walked and came home on Orton's triple. Then Orton scored on a wild pitch.

An error, a walk and Miller's double to right scored a single run in the sixth for Tech.

Tech's final run came in the eighth when Miller singled, stole second and Clyde Thompson doubled him home.

Ouachita Tops Rebels, 3-2, With First Inning Outburst

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer
Ouachita packed all its scoring punch in the first inning and veteran righthander Bob Saterfield was tight in the pinches as the Rebels turned back District 1-AAA rival West Monroe, 3-2, at the Rebel Field Friday afternoon.

The win was the first consecutive victory of the year for Coach Pat Patterson's cellar-dwelling Ouachita nine. The Lions now stand 1-3 in loop play and 2-4 on the overall season. The Rebels evened out at 3-3 for the campaign and 2-2 against 1-AAA foes.

Ouachita gave Saterfield a three-run cushion in the initial frame and that was all the hard-throwing Lion ace needed, although the Rebels threatened frequently and left a total of ten runners stranded on base.

Hustling shortstop James Cromwell led off the first inning with a walk off Ronnie Haile, who went all the way for Coach Dan McClure's Rebs. Harry Crowe sacrificed him to second and Tommy Crowe drove him home with a solid single.

Ken Saterfield, brother of the winning hurler, socked another hit to score Crowe with the second tally. After Saterfield had stolen second, Ervin Bates punched out the third single of the frame to send Saterfield across the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

West Monroe had numerous scoring opportunities but Saterfield kept the hosts at bay until the sixth when two unearned runs spoiled his shutout. Slick-fielding first baseman Charley Dykes opened the sixth with a hard smash to third and was safe when Bubba Via muffed it.

The next batter, Buck Fox, sent another grounder to third and Via's throw to second in attempt to force Dykes was wide and both runners were safe. Tommy Lolley moved the runners up with an infield out and then shortstop Leon Miletello slashed a single to left to score the two Confederate tallies. Saterfield ended the scoring by getting Haile on strikes and Roscoe Holcomb on a fly to center.

The Rebels loaded the bases in the fourth on a double by Dykes and two walks but Haile grounded out to halt the uprising. In the third and fifth the losers put two men on the sacks but couldn't manage a run.

Saterfield doled out six free passes and struck out four while Haile fanned four and walked four.

YANKS-DODGERS
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—The New York Yankee pitching staff continued to shine Friday as rookie John Gabler and Zack Monroe blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0.

Second baseman Gil McDougald homered for the only run of the day. The 390-footer over the left field wall in the second inning was one of three hits the Bombers made off Don Drysdale, who worked eight innings, and veteran Art Fowler.

The Dodgers made only two hits. Junior Cilliam led off the game with a double down the right field line and catcher John Roseboro beat out a bunt after one out in the ninth.

Gabler, a 19-game winner in the American Assn. with Denver last year, walked three batters in the fourth but fanned Duke Snider and retired Roseboro on a soft hopper to squeeze out of that jam.

The Yankee pitching staff, which was believed to be the club's weakest link, has allowed only nine runs in the last six games.

GIANTS-INDIANS
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jack Sanford Friday became the first San Francisco Giants pitcher to go a full nine innings this spring as he survived a rough start to beat Cleveland 6-4.

Sanford, traded to the Giants by Philadelphia in a winter deal, gave up a two-run homer to Rocky Colavito in the first inning and four hits and two runs in the second.

Then he settled down and blanked the Tribe the rest of the way.

Sanford got help from the home run hitting of Eddie Bressoud, Orlando Cepeda and Leon Wagner. Bressoud hit a two-run homer in the second inning; Cepeda a three-run smash in the third and Wagner a solo homer, also in the third.

The teams open a five-game exhibition road trip Saturday in Salt Lake City.

Rocky Bridges blasted a home run and a double for the Tigers, who rapped rookie right-hander Jay Hook for six runs in the first inning. Detroit ran up 35 runs on 36 hits in their last two meetings with the Reds while winning the three-game spring series 2-1.

The Reds accounted for all but one of their runs on homers while getting 11 hits off winner Don Lee, Don Mossi and rookie Gerry Davie. Jerry Lynch hit a three-run seventh-inning homer off Davie after Frank Thomas has knocked in two runs with a single and his fourth homer of the exhibition season.

Palmer Bids For Second Consecutive Masters Title

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, a golfer with little regard for golf's traditions, made his bid Friday to become the first player ever to win two Masters Tournaments in succession.

Palmer took over the lead at the halfway point with rounds of 71-70—141 on the wind-toughened, 6,900-yard Augusta National Course. Then he calmly said he wasn't concerned about the tradition that a Masters winner doesn't repeat his victory.

"I'm just concerned about winning the tournament," he said.

Palmer flouted one Masters tradition when he won last year with a solid 284. He was the youngest winner in more than 20 years and he showed that years of experience aren't necessary to tame the beautifully fearsome course.

Friday more than a half dozen others had torn par to tatters before Palmer, a strong-armed son of a veteran Latrobe, Pa., professional, finally established himself as the leader.

The result was probably the tightest cluster of players near the top of the scoring list that the 25-year-old Masters ever has seen.

Alone in second place at 143 was Canada's Stan Leonard, the first day leader with 69 and one of the few players who had a chance to pass Palmer after he finished Friday.

In spite of somewhat better playing conditions, the 45-year-old Leonard couldn't hold his first round pace and finished with a 74.

Within two strokes of him—and only three or four behind the leader—were 15 players, including two foreign visitors and three former U. S. Open champions.

Almost any one of them was in

Thomas, the big Welshman, Angel Miguel, the tiny Spaniard, and U. S. pros Mike Souchak and Billy Maxwell. Thomas, Souchak and Maxwell all shot 71s, one under for the 36-36—72 layout.

Only the 40 low scorers for the first two rounds and those tied for 40th place will continue in the last two rounds of the tournament Saturday and Sunday.

With such a cluster of talent at the top, it took a score of 149 or better to survive the cutoff.

Among those who failed to make it were Jimmy Demaret, a three-time Masters champion, Horton Smith, who has won twice and former winners Claude Harmon, Herman Kelsor, Craig Wood, and Gene Sarazen.

Ken Venturi, who missed winning by a stroke two years ago, was another who failed to earn one of 42 places above the cutoff line.

Playing conditions were made for low scoring and the players were quick to show it. Finsterwald started with a 68 during the calm early part of the day. Even though the gusty, uncertain wind increased later, the par breaking continued.

Veteran Ed Oliver, former Open champ Julius Boros, and slender, long-hitting Paul Harey fired three-under-par 69s for 144 totals. They were joined there by Dave

APRIL 15 DEADLINE

Ray Ordered To Sign With Basilio

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson Friday was ordered to sign for a title fight with Carmen Basilio by noon April 15, or lose his crown.

The latest ultimatum to the 38-year-old champion was issued by the state athletic commission. At the same time the commission rejected Germany's Gustav Scholz, the European champion, as a suitable contender for Robinson at this time.

Scholz and Robinson's attorney, Martin Machat, had advised the commission by letter that negotiations had been completed for a Robinson-Scholz title fight in the United States or Germany before September 1959.

Machat threatened court action if the commission carried out its edict.

Neither Robinson nor any member of his entourage attended the session. Neither could they be reached for comment.

Only last January, when the NBA said it would take drastic action against Robinson, Gainford threatened a suit against each member of the NBA's executive committee. When the committee met, Robinson mollified the members by saying he planned a title defense in either May or June.

Kruelewitz said that Basilio, the former champion, was the outstanding challenger and that he had filed a formal challenge backed up with the necessary $2,000 check. He said that Gene Fullmer, another ex-champion, had written the commission asking for a title fight but had not filed a formal challenge.

Scholz, 29, is ranked fourth contender by both NBA and Ring Magazine. He has a 51-14 win-loss-draw record. The German's only loss was to France's Charles Humez on March 11, 1958. Scholz stopped Humez in the 12th round of a return bout last October to win the European title.

Loop Tryouts Slated Today

Three local boys' baseball leagues will hold tryouts today, the Northside and Southside Little Leagues and the Dixie circuit.

The Southside tryouts will be held at 1 p.m., instead of 3 as previously announced, at Lions Field in Bernstein Park. The Northside tryouts will be held at 9 this morning in Bendel Memorial Stadium in Forsythe Park.

The Dixie Leaguers will work out at 3 o'clock at Legion Stadium.

Medal Designed For '60 Olympics

ROME (AP)—Italian sculptor Emilio Greco has designed the official commemorative medal for the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome.

A nude female figure, running and bearing the Olympic torch, appears on the face of the medal. The Olympic emblem of five interlaced rings provides a background for the figure. On the back of the medal, Greco has depicted the flight of doves from the Olympic Stadium, symbolizing "victories during the Olympiad and their echo throughout the world."

Wall Claims Hole-In-One 'Embarrassing'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Normally a golfer who makes a hole-in-one busts his buttons and through incessant boasting becomes a club house bore for life.

Not Art Wall Jr. He's made 33 of them and it's okay with him if he never makes another.

"It's very embarrassing," the 35-year-old professional said Friday. "Everybody thinks you're a liar and a cheat. It burns me up. So I'd rather forget all about it."

The year's leading money winner with $18,814, Wall currently is a contender in the Masters tournament.

Wall began sinking his tee shots when he was a lad of 12 and a caddy at his hometown club in Honesdale, Pa. He had 25 when he entered Duke University and since then has made 10 more in two sanctioned PGA tournaments.

"There's nothing too unusual about that," he said. "As a kid I sometimes played 45 holes a day and, as you know I play quite a bit of golf today."

Wall's shortest hole-in-one was on a 135-yard hole. His longest was a 300-yarder at Durham, N.C. His first hole-in-one in a PGA sanctioned tournament was in the Texas Open at San Antonio in 1951. The course was the Sam Houston but Art has forgotten the details.

His latest—his 35th—came only last January in the San Diego Open on the Mission Valley Course. He sank his tee shot on the 190-yard seventh hole with a three-iron.

The ones he's proudest of, however, were Nos. 32 and 33. They were made on his home course at Honesdale, Pa.

"The reason I'm delighted with these," Wall said with deep satisfaction, "is that I was playing with a preacher—the Rev. Stanley Lange of the First Presbyterian Church."

"Now let somebody call him a liar."

Backcourt veteran Bill Sharman of the Celtics has a healthy respect for the Lakers.

"The fact that we've beaten them 18 straight, with a couple of overtime games in there this year surely means the law of averages is running in their favor," Sharman said. "I know that I, for one, am certainly not overconfident of pinning them down easily."

Boston's big problem: Find a way to slow down the Laker's sensational rookie Elgin Baylor.

Baylor whipped in 170 points in the six-game upset over defending world champion St. Louis in the Western Division final. That put his average at 28.3 per outing.

"I never saw a rookie with so much poise in a playoff series," said Minneapolis Coach Johnny Kundla happily. "Why, he even was better on the St. Louis court than he was at home."

CHEERING IN SIGN LANGUAGE — Sandra Brown of Long Beach, Calif., attending the National Basketball Tournament for the Deaf in Atlanta, watches a game and cheers her favorite team with a beaming smile and gesture of her hands. APRIL 15 DEADLINE Ray Ordered To Sign With Basilio

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson Friday was ordered to sign for a title fight with Carmen Basilio by noon April 15, or lose his crown.

The latest ultimatum to the 38-year-old champion was issued by the state athletic commission. At the same time the commission rejected Germany's Gustav Scholz, the European champion, as a suitable contender for Robinson at this time.

Scholz and Robinson's attorney, Martin Machat, had advised the commission by letter that negotiations had been completed for a Robinson-Scholz title fight in the United States or Germany before September 1959.

Machat threatened court action if the commission carried out its edict.

Machat said neither he, Robinson nor George Gainford, a Robinson adviser, had been invited to appear at the commission meeting where the statement was issued.

Gen. Melvin Krulwich, commission chairman, pointed out that commission rules require champions to defend their titles every six months. Robinson hasn't defended since he regained the jewels from Basilio in Chicago, March 25, 1958.

New York's warning to Sugar Ray Robinson followed the action of the National Boxing Assn. on March 30, the NBA indicated it would strip Robinson of his title unless he signed for a defense April 25. The NBA, however, did not name an opponent for Robinson. New York is not a member of the NBA.

Scholz, 29, is ranked fourth contender by both NBA and Ring Magazine. He has a 51-1-4 win-loss-draw record. The German's only loss was to France's Charles Humez on March 11, 1958. Scholz stopped Humez in the 12th round of a return bout last October to win the European title.

Neither Robinson nor any member of his entourage attended the session. Neither could they be reached for comment.

Only last January, when the NBA said it would take drastic action against Robinson, Gainford threatened a suit against each member of the NBA's executive committee. When the committee met, Robinson mollified the members by saying he planned a title defense in either May or June.

Krulwich said that Basilio, the former champion, was the outstanding challenger and that he had filed a formal challenge backed up with the necessary $2,000 check. He said that Gene Fullmer, another ex-champion, had written the commission asking for a title fight but had not filed a formal challenge.

Scholz, 29, is ranked fourth contender by both NBA and Ring Magazine. He has a 51-1-4 win-loss-draw record. The German's only loss was to France's Charles Humez on March 11, 1958. Scholz stopped Humez in the 12th round of a return bout last October to win the European title.

NBA FINALS Coach Counts On Celtic Momentum

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Coach Red Auerbach is counting on the Celtics' momentum to carry them past the physically powerful Minneapolis Lakers in the championship of professional basketball opening Saturday.

The best-of-7 final series in the National Basketball Assn. playoffs gets underway at Boston Garden at 3 p.m. EST. The game will be televised nationally by NBC.

Auerbach, still limp from the rugged semifinal battle against Syracuse which the Celts salvaged in the last-ditch seventh game, 130-125, doubts if his team's 13 straight triumphs over the Lakers will result in a psychological let-down.

"I think—I should say, I hope—that our momentum will carry us along now," Auerbach said. "Certainly a coach cannot put the whip to our players now. You can't do it. They came through with the big one on Wednesday."

"All I can do is outline the picture and let them take it from there."

"Minneapolis? They're a big, strong team, but they don't have Syracuse's speed. Nobody has. We should be all right. I think. We're in good shape and we know that the winner of this series picks up all the marbles."

Backcourt veteran Bill Sharman of the Celtics has a healthy respect for the Lakers.

"The fact that we've beaten them 18 straight, with a couple of overtime games in there this year surely means the law of averages is running in their favor," Sharman said. "I know that I, for one, am certainly not overconfident of pinning them down easily."

Boston's big problem: Find a way to slow down the Laker's sensational rookie Elgin Baylor.

Baylor whipped in 170 points in the six-game upset over defending world champion St. Louis in the Western Division final. That put his average at 28.3 per outing.

"I never saw a rookie with so much poise in a playoff series," said Minneapolis Coach Johnny Kundla happily. "Why, he even was better on the St. Louis court than he was at home."

Use Lighter Colors For Dark Rooms

Q. — I am about to get a brown tweed rug for my living room and plan to have a spice brown living room suite with it. What colors should I use for walls, odd chairs, draperies? Is sandalwood still a good color or should I use a lighter color for a dark room?

A. — With the tweed rug a spice brown sofa would be nice but a whole suite would be dreary. Have your comfortable chairs in a nice warm and bright gold color and repeat the brown perhaps only on the seats of occasional odd chairs. Sandalwood is perfectly fine as a color but I would not recommend it in a dark room with a basically brown scheme. Try instead a very light tone of the same gold used on the chairs and match draperies to it.

Q. — I have a very small bedroom which is tiled halfway up with light gray trimmed in maroon. The floor linoleum is in charcoal and pink squares that measure about eight inches each. What color walls and ceiling will make the bathroom look larger and also blend in with the existing colors? Also I have a small bedroom. How should I paint it to make it look larger?

A. — In your bathroom carry the light gray on up the walls and over the ceiling. If this seems too cold for you, try the palest tint of pink. Paint is certainly one way to make a room look larger. Remember that the paler the color the more the walls seem to go out and away from you. Pale yellows, eggshells and white do the trick well. A darker tone on the ceiling (but the same color) might also help. Keep curtains the same color as the walls.

Q. — I have a yellow and chrome kitchen set and white cabinets. What color would you suggest for walls, ceiling, floor covering and cafe curtains? The room is rather small.

A. — White walls would certainly be best with white cabinets in a small room but you could paint the ceiling a really wild yellow and even match the cabinet knobs to it. Try a yellow, white and green small sprigged flower print for the curtains and on the floor a black-and-white flecked pattern which will not show dirt as quickly as something plain.

Q. — I plan to redo my entire living room, keeping only a maroon tone-on-tone leaf patterned rug, mahogany piano and end table, mahogany cocktail table, mahogany lamp table. What colors can I use and what will go with the furniture I already have?

A. — Today's practice of mixing periods makes your problem simple. Your mahogany pieces will take on a modern look if you use a contemporary color scheme that combines maroons, pinks and

How can parents determine which of these influences are best for the individual child and at the same time face the inevitable "But everyone else..."?

When are today's children emotionally and physically ready for competitive sports; music; dancing; art; personal privileges such as movies, dates, phones, etc.?

Why has the social development of children been accelerated and what could be the lasting effects of this acceleration?

Use Lighter Colors For Dark Rooms

Q. — I am about to get a brown tweed rug for my living room and plan to have a spice brown living room suite with it. What colors should I use for walls, odd chairs, draperies? Is sandalwood still a good color or should I use a lighter color for a dark room?

A. — With the tweed rug a spice brown sofa would be nice but a whole suite would be dreary. Have your comfortable chairs in a nice warm and bright gold color and repeat the brown perhaps only on the seats of occasional odd chairs. Sandalwood is perfectly fine as a color but I would not recommend it in a dark room with a basically brown scheme. Try instead a very light tone of the same gold used on the chairs and match draperies to it.

Q. — I have a very small bathroom which is tiled halfway up with light gray trimmed in marble. The floor linoleum is in charcoal and pink squares that measure about eight inches each. What color walls and ceiling will make the bathroom look larger and also blend in with the existing colors? Also I have a small bedroom. How should I paint it to make it look larger?

A. — In your bathroom carry the light gray on up the walls and over the ceiling. If this seems too cold for you, try the palest tint of pink. Paint is certainly one way to make a room look larger. Remember that the paler the color the more the walls seem to go out and away from you. Pale yellows, eggshells and white do the trick well. A darker tone on the ceiling (but the same color) might also help. Keep curtains the same color as the walls.

Q. — I have a yellow and chrome kitchen set and white cabinets. What color would you suggest for walls, ceiling, floor covering and cafe curtains? The room is rather small.

A. — White walls would certainly be best with white cabinets in a small room but you could paint the ceiling a really wild yellow and even match the cabinet knobs to it. Try a yellow, white and green small sprigged flower print for the curtains and on the floor a black-and-white flecked pattern which will not show dirt as quickly as something plain.

Q. — I plan to redo my entire living room, keeping only a maroon tone-on-tone leaf patterned rug, mahogany piano and end table, mahogany cocktail table, mahogany lamp table. What colors can I use and what will go with the furniture I already have?

A. — Today's practice of mixing periods makes your problem simple. Your mahogany pieces will take on a modern look if you use a contemporary color scheme that combines maroons, pinks and

PTA Sponsors A Panel Discussion

The Parent Education Committee of Georgia Tucker P.T.A. will sponsor a Panel Discussion on April 9th at 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the United Gas Building.

Speakers will include: Rev. A. Donald Davies, Rector, Grace Episcopal Church. Prior to coming to Monroe, Father Davies was on the National Council of the Episcopal Church in the Adult Education Department.

Dr. John Paul Pratt, M.D. Dr. Pratt is a psychiatrist and Medical Director of the Monroe Area Guidance Center.

Mrs. Howard Rivers, Mrs. Rivers, a mother and former P.T.A. president, is a member of the Monroe Recreation Board and Superintendent of the Junior Department of the First Presbyterian Church.

Some of the topics for discussion will be: Are today's children being exposed to outside influences—even though morally desirable—too often and at too early an age?

How can parents determine which of these influences are best for the individual child and at the same time face the inevitable "But everyone else . . . ?"

When are today's children emotionally and physically ready for competitive sports; music; dancing; art; personal privileges such as movies, dates, phones, etc.?

Why has the social development of children been accelerated and what could be the lasting effects of this acceleration?

YOUR BABY AND MINE

How To Handle The Runabout

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The runabout stage is the one which drives most mothers frantic. Their complaints all sound alike. "He is into everything."

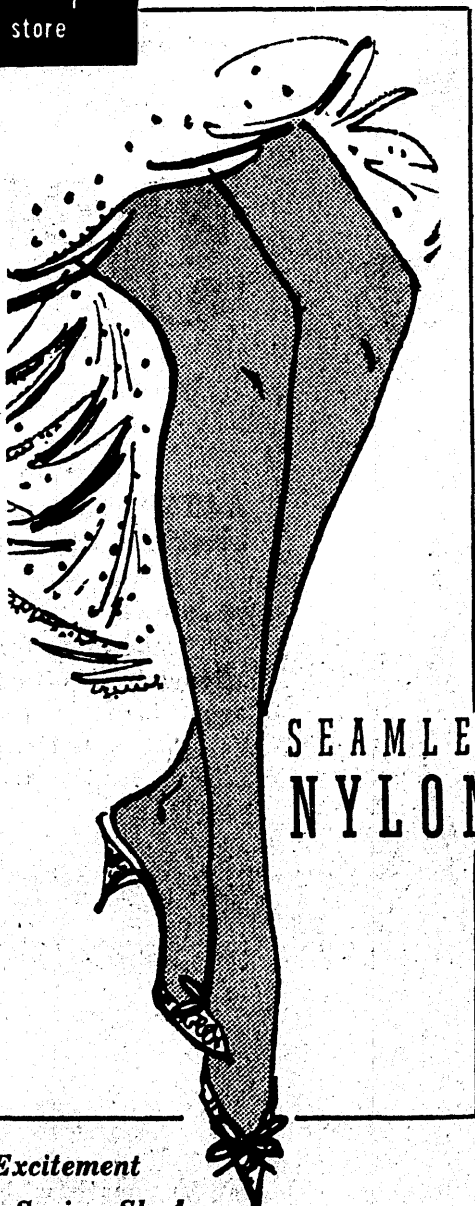

It would seem, at times, as if all this running around, pulling books out of the bookcase, hanging onto curtains, shaking the lamps, opening drawers and closets and rummaging in them, were done just to make the mother's life miserable.

This is not so. The child is busy learning all about the place in which he lives. He wants to know the shape of objects, the weight and feel of them, their solidity or fluidity. He sticks his fingers in his milk, he blows bubbles into it, he throws things down and expects them to come back to him; he eats what he finds on the floor, all with a desire to mop up knowledge in every possible way.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Seems Too Young And Overly Emotional

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I'm a college sophomore, 20, who is in too darned deep with a high school senior. She writes me two letters a day and calls me long-distance twice a week. She spends all her allowance on these long-distance calls and I feel lousy about it.

All she talks about is the ring I'm going to give her when she graduates from high school. She also plans to go to work to "help me through college". I don't NEED any help, but she insists this is what she wants to do.

About that ring, it isn't a diamond, it's a pearl, and it belonged to my grandmother. To be honest with you I don't feel the same about her as I did when I was in high school. She seems too young and overly emotional.

How can I extricate myself without shaking up this child? She doesn't date any other fellows and in today's letter she said she bought a cedar chest. Help! — VIC

And how did this "Child" know about your grandmother's pearl ring, Big Mouth? It looks very much as if you gave her a reason to believe she might have use of a cedar chest in the near future.

Before she spends any more money on the long-distance telephone, suggest that she get back into circulation pronto. A clean break will be less painful than letting the deception drag on and on. If you don't act swiftly, you're apt to get an invitation to a wedding in the mail one of these days. Your own.

DEAR ANN: My mother recently remarried. Her new husband is a grand person and we are all extremely fond of him. My own father was a scoundrel who was unapologetically cruel and thoroughly despised by everyone. Our preschool children never knew my real father, and if it is within my power, they never will.

The problem is this. I would like my children to call Mother's present husband "Grandfather". My own husband is against this. He says the man is NOT their grandfather and they should call him "Uncle". He says they have HIS father and one grandfather is sufficient. Please advise. — ANOTHER ANN.

DEAR ANN: If your husband can prove that your stepfather is an uncle to his children, he can call me "Grandmother". Of course they should call the man Grandfather. One is NOT enough, if they have two.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for E. J. K. who complained that his wife was such a sloppy housekeeper that it got on his nerves.

I'm the mother of seven children. Four years ago my husband acted just like E.J.K. He blew his top if I didn't look like a beauty queen when he came home from work. Sometimes my hair wasn't combed, the dishes weren't put away and the rugs weren't vacuumed. The fact that I had seven little ones didn't count for anything.

Well, the good Lord was on my side. I had a nervous breakdown. I was in the hospital several weeks. My husband had to take time off from his work to stay home with the kids until he could hire a housekeeper. He learned from experience what I had to do in the course of an average day.

After four days of it, he sat beside my bed in the hospital and held my hand. He said "I'll never complain again. I don't know how you managed as well as you did. When you get well, things will be different."

He kept his word. Now I have help with the laundry and cleaning. (He says it's cheaper than hospital and doctor bills.) He pitches in and helps with the kids, which he never did before. Saturday I have a day and evening off. We go out to dinner and see a movie. I'm happy and strong again. The breakdown was the best thing that ever happened to me. It opened my husband's eyes. —MOTHER OF SEVEN.

Commission Backs Road Maintenance

The Monroe-Ouachita Regional Planning Commission yesterday went on record as endorsing the proposed 2-mill road maintenance tax. Property owners will have a chance to vote on the proposal in Tuesday's election.

Roy Johns, commission chairman, announced that Commission members were polled "concerning the road maintenance and construction tax."

"Since the Planning Commission is vitally interested in proper maintenance of road systems as well as in plans for future new roads and improved traffic circulation, we hereby go on record as endorsing the proposed tax," the statement stressed.

Pointing out that the Police Jury is calling for a two-mill road maintenance and upkeep tax for the present road system and for construction of new blacktopped roads, the Commission explained that this will be a necessity if the Parish desires progress.

REGION

The Commission has its planning region in an area which includes the city limits of Monroe and portions of Ouachita Parish, three miles beyond the Monroe limits on the east side of the Ouachita River.

"The area in Ouachita Parish outside the city limits of the Twin Cities consists of 618 square miles which at present has 786 miles of existing parish roads," the statement mentioned.

When informed of the Commission's endorsement last night, Police Jury President M. W. Montgomery said it showed foresight and wisdom.

"The people of the parish 'thired us, but they won't give us the money to do our work. It's like hiring a bookkeeper, then refusing to give him a pencil and paper to do his work," he said.

If the five proposals pass Tuesday, they will only amount to about $2 worth of taxes per year on a house assessed at $2,000... and we'll have the necessary funds to do our work properly," he said.

Permit Now Required To Clean Tanks

Material now being removed from septic tanks in the city of Monroe is being dumped into a manhole at the corner of South 13th Street and Ouachita Avenue, following a switch - over in location of the manhole used. A city permit now must be obtained to do this work.

Dr. W. Carroll Summer, Ouachita parish Health Unit director pointed out yesterday that the city had discontinued use of a manhole at Eighth and Orange Streets early in March.

Effective March 18, the 13th Street - Ouachita Avenue disposal point was put into use, and the city began requiring persons who clear out the tanks to obtain permits for the work.

Residents of Lakeshore and West Monroe recently began use of a manhole on the farthest end of Lazzare Street, beyond the level in West Monroe.

"The Police Jury passed an ordinance several years ago requiring persons who remove sewage to obtain a Health Unit permit," Summer mentioned.

Three fires yesterday afternoon gutted a Negro residence and damaged two business houses. No one was injured.

The house blaze came at 12:34 p.m. at 2925 Grammont St., and extensively damaged the residence of Pauline Parker.

Fire officials said the blaze was touched off by children playing with matches.

Engine Companies 2 and 5 arrived and found flames shooting out the doors and windows. However firemen prevented the house from being entirely destroyed.

At 1 p.m. fire broke out in a dust chute at the Supreme Bedding and Furniture on Texas Avenue but firemen confined the blaze to the chute. They classed damage as slight.

An acetylene cutting torch was blamed for touching off a blaze in the Twin City Glass warehouse at 501 Washington St., about 5 p.m.

The fire damaged packing crates and roofing. Firemen said the company was vacating the building and a workman was cutting steel beams with a torch. The fire caught from the torch, setting off excelsior and packing crates.

Former Area Editor Held In California

BASTROP (Special) — An alert bank official in Los Angeles, Calif., has been credited with playing a leading role in the apprehension of a former Bastrop newsman wanted on six grand jury indictments.

Kay Kruger, 52, former editor of the Bastrop Daily Enterprise, was arrested Thursday night in Los Angeles, Calif.

He was taken into custody shortly after cashing a check which authorities said was worthless. The Morehouse Parish sheriff's department was notified after they had tipped Los Angeles police that a check forged on the Morehouse Bank had been cashed in Los Angeles.

California officials sent out a bulletin to all banks and an alert bank official recognized the former newsman as he cashed another check.

The banking officer followed Kruger and discovered where he was staying. He then notified police, who took Kruger into custody.

Los Angeles authorities told Bastrop police that Kruger may be released to face the Louisiana charges since grand jury indictments had been filed against him in Morehouse Parish.

Kruger was indicted on five counts of forgery and one count of burglary.

The former editor is alleged to have cashed two worthless checks in Los Angeles.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — husband was hit in the shoulder and head. Authorities called it murder-suicide. Rogers had been picked up Thursday morning, officers said, for questioning about his family troubles. He was held on an open charge, then released in the afternoon.

Mrs. Rogers drove away, apparently alone, from the bar where she worked Thursday night. A short distance away the 24-year-old husband jumped from the back floor of the car where he was apparently hiding and started shooting.

Calcasieu Parish deputies said Mrs. Rogers called them earlier Thursday night and said she was having trouble with her estranged husband. Two deputies agreed to see her home safely.

Mrs. Rogers was sitting outside the bar in her car when the deputies arrived. She waved and said everything was all right. They drove away.

Suddenly, the deputies said, a second person appeared in the car. There was a brief struggle, then shots.

The car careened into a roadside ditch. Inside the smashed car, deputies found both bodies slumped on the front seat. There was a .25 caliber pistol on the floor.

Mrs. Rogers was hit four times in the head, chest and arm. Her husband was hit in the shoulder and head. Authorities called it murder-suicide.

Writer's Society Convention Set

The annual Louisiana State Writers' Society Convention will be held today at Centenary College, Shreveport.

Northeast State will be represented at the meet by Dr. Marvin McKee, assistant professor of English and an adviser to the Northeast Writers' Club, and four other student members, Rita Snider, Betty Hall, Donna Knotts and Yvonne Woods.

Miss Snider, senior speech major from Monroe, has been chosen as a panelist for this sectional meeting because of her activity in play productions at the college, according to Murray Clark, head of Centenary's English Department.

Dr. McKee will serve as moderator of a panel devoted to techniques of writing one-act plays.

Ingrid Back In Hollywood For Awards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A radiant Ingrid Bergman returned to Hollywood Friday after a 10-year absence, but made it plain she didn't intend to stay.

"I am delighted to return to Hollywood," said the pink-cheeked actress upon her arrival at International Airport with new husband Lars Schmidt. "There are a lot of old friends and familiar places. I hope to see during our brief stay."

But Miss Bergman, here to participate in Monday night's Academy Award presentations, said she did not intend to live in the United States, or to work in the film capital.

"I have no plans to return to work here," said Ingrid. "I prefer living in Europe because my home and children are there."

heavy wool Dior dress suit and coat in matching blue color upon her arrival, said she and Schmidt would stop off in New York for a whirl of theater parties before returning to their home in Paris.

Miss Bergman said she hoped to see her daughter (by Dr. Peter Lindstrom) "Jenny" is at Mills College near San Francisco and I'm sure she will come down to see me," she said.

When Miss Bergman went to Europe a decade ago, she married Italian director Roberto Rossellini after a romance which held front-page attention for many months. She and Rossellini had three children before their breakup last year.

"The children are with their father in Paris now," said Miss Bergman. "I have temporary custody of them until the lawsuit is settled." She said she was surprised the Italian film personality pressed for custody of the children.

As for her current marriage with Schmidt, the Academy-Award winning star said reports that she was expecting a baby was "news to me. Besides, such a thing would be a matter for myself, my husband and God, and not for the newspapers."

Miss Bergman won an Academy Award for her role in "Anastasia" in 1956.

BY EDUCATION BOARDS

Stricter Student Screening Favored

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education and Louisiana State University Friday jointly decided to push stricter screening of high school graduates to slow failures in college.

LSU President Troy H. Middleton told the state's top educators, meeting on mutual problems, educators have to struggle for enough money without wasting it on failures.

The two boards, putting their heads together a little over a month in advance of the fiscal Legislature in May, hold separate meetings Saturday.

The two boards unanimously adopted these key proposals:

• Encouragement of all high schools to promote extensive testing of high school seniors' aptitude, intelligence and achievement to show colleges how he measures up.

• Inclusion of high school grades on the date sheets for college entrance.

The two boards also voted to ask Sen. Rex McCullough's joint Legislative Committee on Higher Education to explore means of converting legislative political scholarships to academic scholarships based more on need and ability.

• Both boards touched briefly on their long range proposals for construction money.

• LSU already has signaled it wants a 40-million dollar bond issue, based on beer tax revenues, and while the state board seeks a 33-million issue for the nine state colleges under its wing, Gov. Earl Long frowns on both proposals.

Dr. Daniel Borth, LSU dean of administration, told the educators LSU plans a 55-million dollar construction program over the next seven years, with more than 50 per cent spent on LSU in New Orleans.

He said up to another 20 million will be sought during the seven years for "self-liquidating" structures such as dormitories.

Alfred Roberts, Lake Charles, state board member, said, "we plan to recommend" a 33-million bond issue for state colleges.

Middleton, concerned over the large number of failures in the first year of college, said last year 37 per cent of the freshman class at LSU advanced out of the junior division on schedule.

He listed these factors: Lack of interest and student laziness, stemming from lack of discipline.

Autos on the campus. LSU has banned cars for freshmen.

Poor high school preparations, calling for noncredit remedial work in such key subjects as English and math.

Poor student counseling.

"We do a horrible thing to a boy at LSU," Middleton continued. "When they are shaving his head, the upperclassmen are after him, they are rushing him for a fraternity, we give him an important placement test. This is unfair because he is under too much pressure to do himself justice."

He urged such tests be given the previous spring at the high school. And that is what the boards spent most of the time discussing.

State Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson told the two boards under a new federal defense act, providing extra money to help skilled students, Louisiana high school seniors this year for the first time will be given tests for ability, aptitude and achievement.
